

Olivia de Havilland Plans To See The Old South

Star To Make Vacation Hop To Macon, Ga.

Setting For "Gone With The Wind" Calling To Girl In Second Lead

HOLLYWOOD, June 24 (INS)—The south is going to get a look at its Melanie in the flesh—Olivia de Havilland, who portrays this central character in "Gone With The Wind," revealed she plans a visit to Macon, Ga. She'll be the guest there of Miss Susan Myrick, who has been in Hollywood for months as assistant technical director on the picture. Miss Myrick is the arbiter of customs, manners and speech.

"Miss Myrick has invited me to visit her sometime this fall and I am sure I can make it," Olivia said. "I have never been in the south and I always have wanted to go there. My sister, Joan Fontaine, and my mother also visited New Orleans when they went down to Houston, Texas, for the world premier of 'Man of Conquest.' They thought it was wonderful down there."

Olivia has a few more scenes to do as Melanie but she'll quit until she completes her role as lady in waiting to Bette Davis in "Elizabeth and Essex," at Warner's home studio.

William Holden, the 21-year-old who was lifted into the title role of Columbia's "Golden Boy," has just had his salary tripled. He started off at $50 a week and now, with the picture almost finished, he's getting $150.

If Bill clicks in the picture, he'll be making a thousand a week or so before long. That's the way things happen in Hollywood. Bob Taylor started off a little over five years ago at $50 per week and he gets $5,000.

With the raise, Bill has taken a house with Hugh McCullum, a script dialogue director on the picture. The amusing part of that is that McCullum is one of Richard Carlson's closest friends and Carlson originally was slated to play Golden Boy.

Holden is rehearsing the prize fight scene in which he kills another pugilist. The victim is to be Cannonball Greene, professional light heavy who once fought a draw with Maxie Rosenbloom.

Holden admits very frankly his boxing skill is at a very low ebb, even with a lot of practice. He says:

"When we get into the ring for the real fight I hope Cannonball likes me."

Hollywood is convinced Danielle Darrieux isn't coming back. (Worse luck!) Universal insists the French beauty will be here in the fall. A few months back Joe Pasternak, her producer, told your reporter with great emphasis she'd arrive March 15. She didn't.

Outside the legal entanglements over her French contract, there is another consideration. Danielle is very much in love with her husband, Henri Decoin, famous World war ace, her friends here say, and they are certain she never will leave him in Paris while there is the threat of war in Europe.

You've heard so much about break-ups of movie romances. In preferring her husband to her Hollywood commitments Danielle is sacrificing a cool $750,000. Boy, that's love!

Jack Benny Will Broadcast From Old Home Town Sunday

Bette Davis Will Converse With Charlie McCarthy, With English Pianist As Added Attraction

Jack Benny, who left Watkegan 20 years ago with only a violin to keep his chin up, will stick that same chin out when he returns home to preview his new picture and present his final broadcast of the season with his gang over WEA-F Sunday, at 6:30 p. m.

In addition to his regular gang including Mary Livingstone, Don Wilson, Andy Devine, Rochester, and Phil Harris' orchestra, Jack will have as guest of honor his boyhood pal and schoolmate, Manuel Talcott, now mayor of Watkegan. Talcott was added to the cast only after giving Jack his word that he won't repeat on the air any of the anecdotes about Benny the Boy, which he's been regaling for the rest of the gang all week.

Jack's chief worry has been the flood of anonymous threats received since he announced last Sunday that he was taking his violin to Watkegan. But he refuses to believe that Charlie Lindsay, his old music teacher, is the author of the notes.

Jack is still in hopes that Kenny Baker, who stayed from the party in Kansas City, will reach Watkegan in time for the broadcast.

The "Musical Playhouse," starring Jane Froman, Jan Penno and Erno Rapce, will run the musical scale from blues and spirituals to the classical during the half hour broadcast over WABF Sunday, at 6:30 p. m. The program will include works of Victor Herbert, Hoagy Carmichael, Leoncavallo, Leonora and Vincent Youmans.

Academy Award Winner Bette Davis will talk over acting problems with the department Charlie McCarthy on the program Sunday. Abe Toppoloff, the English pianist, makes his third straight appearance on the broadcast over WEA-F at 7 p. m. which regularly features the talents of Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen, Donald Dickson and Robert Arnbruster's orchestra.

Often called by critics the best actress in Hollywood, Miss Davis will display her talents in a one-act play with Don Ameche as her acting partner. She won the 1928 academy award for her performance in "Jezebel."

Helen Wood will play Lady Mary Carlisle and Charles Boyer will be heard in the title role when Boyer closes his Hollywood Playhouse series with an adaptation of Booth Tarkington's famous romance, "Monteur Beauregard." The drama will be heard from 8 to 8:30 p. m. over WJZ.

Boyer will star as the young Frenchman whose masquerade at the famous resort of Bath brings him into conflict with the English aristocrats who ruled the salons and game rooms. Tarkington's colorful story describes the brief and tragic love affair of Montieur Beauregard and Lady Mary Elizabeth.

Paul Wine's Spelling Bee Sunday

Hollywood is convinced Danielle Darrieux isn't coming back. (Worse luck!) Universal insists the French beauty will be here in the fall. A few months back Joe Pasternak, her producer, told your reporter with great emphasis she'd arrive March 15. She didn't.

Members of the board are George Kelly, J. W. Mertz, and Delmer Shadley with Charles Hawk as clerk.

Lima Public Library Staff
TREE OF LIBERTY—By Elizabeth Page—Farrar and Rinehart.—$3.00

This is an historical novel that will be rewarding if one reads it only as a story of adventure and love. But in addition it is the more exciting and interesting because of the men and women of history who appear in the story, especially the lovable Thomas Jefferson. The story follows the lives and adventures of Matthew Howard, his wife, Jane, and their children from 1754 to 1806, from the eastern seaboard to the frontier of the western plains. It is an old-fashioned novel a little like those by Mary Johnston and Winston Churchill. The historical figures are accurately and justly portrayed. The story is clear, straight-forward, skillfully contrived and gracefully told.

MY DAYS OF STRENGTH—By Anne Walter Fern—Harper and Brothers.—$3.00.

This is an autobiography of an American woman, physician who graduated in 1893, and went out to China to open up the Women's Hospital in Soochow. Her life was crammed with the dramatic episodes associated with the life of a physician and also with life in China. The account of her 40 years in China is spiced with tales of epidemics, floods, and campaigns against barking dogs and mosquitoes. This is far from being just another book about a doctor. Great interest lies in what Mrs. Fern tells us about China and what she is herself.

THIS NETTLE DANGER—Sir Philip Gibbs—Doubleday, Doran and Co.—$2.50.

Sir Philip Gibbs is a journalist of high rank. He has chosen here to give American readers an impression of what an ordeal the peace-loving English people went thru during the desperate days before the peace of Munich. He has chosen to do it in fiction. John Barton, an American, is sent to England as correspondent. His attempt to understand the Englishman's dilemma was involved with his love for Lady Anne Elia whose views appear to Barton to be excessively reactionary. When they find a common ground in which their views are reconciled—that of the necessity for peace—both their
