BOY ACQUITTED OF MURDER LONDON (U.P.)—A 13-year-old London boy committed for trial at the Old Bailey on a charge of murder was acquitted. Although he confessed to strangling a 4-year-old girl, his counsel successfully argued there had been no evidence to rebut the presumption that a boy under 14 was incapable of sufficient evil intent to commit a crime.

THE INSIDE OF A WATCH In this Age of Wonders, a watch may seem just a common thing. It really is a common thing, but there is wonder in it all the same. Think of a little machine which we can keep in a pocket or fastened to the wrist, a little machine which will tell us the time of day—if we keep it wound and in good working order.

Clocks of one kind or another have existed for thousands of years, but not watches. Christopher Columbus did not carry a watch across the Atlantic. They were not being made at the time of his first voyage. Before he died, watches were put out at Nuremberg, Germany, but few Spaniards, if any, saw one of them until after the death of Columbus in 1506. Those early watches were made far smaller and which kept better time.
