Yankees' Bats Speak Rancor of Night Ball

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Night baseball today was under serious indictment by the New York Yankees.

Beaten Monday night under the lights, the Yankees came back in the daylight Wednesday to slug the Athletics twice, 23-2 and 10-0. The same club that could make only four hits off a pitcher, Henry Phippen, who had never before won an American League game collected 32 runs, 43 hits for a total of 87 bases and cracked two all-time major league records and one gain.

The fans had a right today to ask, "What kind of business is this night baseball?" There can't be that much difference in the Yankees from one game to the next so the answer must be the difference in night and day ball. Some of the old timers and die-hards have felt for some time that night baseball had no place in the majors, and there was some definite evidence at hand today that the encroachments it's making are lowering the standard of play.

The Yankees have never wanted night ball and don't want it now. They spoke their resentment with their bats Wednesday.

By hitting eight home runs in the first game, the Yankees smashed the record of seven set by Detroit in 1888 and equaled six times (once last June 6 by the Giants). By adding five more homers in the nightcap, the Yankees set a new mark of 13 homers in two consecutive games, breaking the old record of 11 which they made in 1936. By making in the first game 27 hits which totaled 53 bases, they set a new American League mark, surpassing the old figure of 50 which the Yankees set in 1932.

The homers were divided this way: first game—DiMaggio, 2; Dahlgren, 2; Dickey, Selkirk, Gordon, Henrich—8. Second game—Gordon, 2; Crosell, DiMaggio,

Evansville, Newark Face Easy Foes

Evansville and Newark, contenders in the County Line baseball league meet second division clubs Sunday afternoon in the third set of games of the second round. The clubs share the lead with seven wins and one defeat each.

Evansville is host to last place Footville, which has lost seven games. Newark plays at Hanover, which last Sunday was weakened by the accidental deaths of Charles and Orrin Borkenhagen. Tiffany is at Orfordville in the third league contest.

Postponed Games End Richland Half

Richland county baseball league teams will complete their first half schedule Sunday afternoon with the playing of two postponed games. Boaz, dropped from a first place tie Sunday, is at Richland Center to play the Cubs; Sextonville is at Ithaca. Cazenovia took over the undisputed league lead Sunday by defeating Boaz. The latter can cut the leaders' margin to one game by defeating the Cubs. The game was postponed by rain in the first round games in the league this season; Sextonville and Ithaca

Wisconsin Netters Lose in National

HAVERSFORD, Pa. — Marvin Wachman of Milwaukee and star Northwestern university player, was eliminated from the National Intercollegiate tennis tournament at Merion Cricket club here Wednesday when Robert Kanarth of Texas won in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

Wachman subsequently bowed out of the doubles picture with his partner, Frank Froehling, of Northwestern, when Douglas Imhoff and Robert Peacock, California, won, 6-3, 6-1.

The University of Wisconsin's only representative, Douglas Coyle and Art Nelsens, also were eliminated in the second round of doubles play, Robert Harman and Dan Roberts, California, winning, 6-4, 6-2.
