

“Romance Of Oil” Episode To Be Dramatized Friday

Indians Who Entertained King And Queen Will Be Heard As Feature Of Death Valley Day Program

Early indifference of the Indians toward seeping oil on their lands, and even the federal government's shoulder shrugging when the Indians reported it, will form the basis of the "Romance of Oil" episode to be dramatized on the concert program Friday.

The scene at the opening of the dramatization is the Indian Territory in 1856, when the Indians were using the abundant oil only as a curative.

The play reaches a climax when oil is struck at 1,400 feet at Bartlesville, Okla., in 1890.

Kuruks Pahitu (Lone Bear), one of two Indians who entertained King George VI and Queen Elizabeth during their stay at President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate, will play the leading role and sing traditional Indian songs during the Death Valley Days program Friday, from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m., over WEA-F.

The story to be dramatized reveals why the United States Government never enforced an order requiring the Navajo Indians to cut their hair as a sanitary measure.

A plea made on behalf of the Navajos by Nah Gee, a young brave, stirred members of congress to disregard the order.

The title song from Bing Crosby's picture, "East Side of Heaven," will be sung by Frank Munn, tenor soloist of the Waltz Time program, as a highlight of the broadcast Friday, from 8:00 to 8:30 p. m. over WEA-F.

Munn, accompanied by Abe Lyman and his orchestra and the Waltz Time Chorus, also will be heard in Reisfeld's new ballad, "Grateful,"

Orchestra numbers will be Herbert's "Gypsy Sweetheart," Archer's "I Love You," Green's "Moonlight on the River" and Von Tilzen's "Somewhere, Someone is Waiting for Me."

Barcelona's "Maria-Elena" and Howa-rd's "Honey-moon," by the orchestra and chorus, will complete the program.

Comedian Phil Baker has signed Norman Panama and Mel Frank, former scripters for Bob Hope, to write material for his series.

"Joyce Jordan, Girl Inter-3," which returns to CBS July 3 as a five-a-week feature, will be sponsored Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays but goes on as a sustaining Tuesday and Thursday.

Helen Claire, star of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," Broadway hit, and Ida Bailey Allen, famed cooking authority, will reveal their secret ambitions to Mort Lewis on "If I Had the Chance" July 4.

Altho only three weeks, "Moon Love," written by Dr. Andre Kostelanetz, maestro of "Tune-Up Time," is already among the ten leading songs of the week as determined by the number of times broadcast over major networks.

Recordings of the tune are now being made by Sandy Kaye, Glenn Miller, Horace Heidt, Paul Whiteman, Al Donohue and Mildred Bailey.
