Comedians Will Give Their Version Of Marquand Character: Jessel Will Introduce Celebrities

Best-seller writing J. P. Marquand and be "so sorry" he ever created the character Mr. Moto when he sees what Lou Holtz and Jerry Colonna do to it on Rudy Vallee's program. The comedians' version of a Mr. Moto story will be heard over WEAF Thursday at 7 p. m.

In an interview, Marquand will discuss his two most notable best-sellers, "The Late George Apley," 1938 Pulitzer prize winner, and this year's "Wickford Point."

Broadway's hit play, "No Time for Comedy," will be represented by Laurence Olivier, handsome young English ac-
