DIXIE DAVIS LEAVES JAIL

Dixic Davis (carrying bags), the "kid mouthpiece" for the late Dutch

New York, technically a free man, However, he was accompanied by four detectives who are protecting him from possible gangland vengeance. Dixie Davis turned state's evidence when the former Tammany district leader, James J. Hines, was brought to trial on a conspiracy charge.

Thrilling Stories Set For Order Of Adventurers Hour

War Correspondent To Tell Of Escaping Firing Squad In Spain; Lowell Thomas Back From Vacation

A thrilling true story of the recent war in Spain will be told by Arthur Shields, well known correspondent, as a feature of The Order of Adventurers program over the Blue Network Monday at 7:00 p. m.

Shields remained in the battle zone during the last days of the fighting when most other foreign journalists had departed. Just before the final collapse of the Loyalist forces he was captured with a number of Spanish newspapermen.

All of his companions were executed but, by a clever ruse, Shields managed to escape across the French border.

The second adventurer to be initiated will be Mrs. Ida C. Fletcher, of Richfield, Idaho, who clung to the wreckage of a bridge over the Magic dam near Sun Valley until she was rescued by workmen. Mrs. Fletcher applied for membership by mail on the basis of her hair-raising experi-

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, world-famous archeologist and member of the executive board of the O. of A., also plans to tell a story this week. It will deal with his exploration of the Temple of the Living Buddha in Asia, a der pain of death.

Commander Felix Riesenberg and Col. Theodore Roosevelt also are to be presented but Admiral Richard E. Byrd will be absent on business connected with his forthcoming trip to the Antarctic. Lowell Thomas will return from vacation to resume his duties on the executive board.

A Syracuse, N. Y., retailer of radios will enter a new sphere of the industry when Melville Clark, a harpist by avocation, makes his radio debut during the Magic Key program Monday at 7:30

Clark, in New York to attend the annual Music Merchants-assiconvention, will be accompanied by his wife, who plays the novachord. The broadcast will be attended by many of the music merchants.

The full-hour broadcast also will present Helen Jepson, Metropolitan Opera soprano; the Victor Concert orchestra, conducted by Nathaniel Shilkret; the "news in rhyme" Rodgers Sisters, and Colonel Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle, crackpot inventor of the airwayes. Schipa's vocal transcription of the "Liebestraum" by Liszt will sung by Margaret Speaks, soprano soloist, as a highlight of the broadcast on Monday from 7:30 to 8 p. m. Other solos by Miss Speaks will be Kern's "I'm the Echo," Martin's "All For You," and "Romany Life" from Herbert's "The Fortune Teller." The symphony orchestra, conducted by Alfred Wallenstein, will Wagner's "Rienzi" overture, the Farandole from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne" suite, and the waltz from Tschaikowsky's "Engen Oncein"

It might be wishful thinking to forget warm weather, or it might be looking forward to next season, but the fact remains that Al Pearce and his Gang will devote their comedy efforts to "Winter

Movie fans who attended the Ohio Sunday were loud in their praise of "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever," the newest in the Haidy series, Once again Mickey Rooney scores in the title role and is assisted by the usual members of the cast.

A great double bill is flashing m the Quilna screen and offers Sidney Toler in the litle role of "Charlie Chan in Reno" and Stu Erwin and Gloria Stuart in "It Could Happen to You." The first picture, naturally, is a mystery. while the second is packed full of comedy.

The Sigma is offering those little toughies, the Dead End Kids, in a new kind of story, "Hell's Kitchen." Without losing any of their appeal, the boys this time light for righteousness.

Two of this season's really great pictures are being shown on the same program at the State. They are "Ice Follies of 1939," and "Wuthering Heights," In the former Joan Crawford, James Stewart and Lew Ayres are starred, while the lovely Merle Oberon suspended, the suspension to be efheads the cast in the latter.

The story is said to be the most FAMILY amusing and the most dramatic of the Hardy pictures, Judge gets entangled with some crooked promoters who talk him into investing not only his own money but that of his friends also in a phoney aluminum company, Andy Hardy, in the meantime, having quarreled with his girl, Polly Benedict, falls in love with the high school dramatics teacher. Vowing to have his worth recognized. Andy writes the school play and wins the role of the hero.
