Outstanding Composers To Do Good News Compositions

Two New Stars, Walter Huston And Roland Young, Will Be Heard As Show Returns To Air Thursday

Ten of America's outstanding composers of popular music will be commissioned to write as many classical pieces for presentation on the "Good News of 1940" program when it returns to the air Thursday, over WLW at 8 p. m. Meredith Willson, musical director of the programs, will present the original compositions each week as the "Concert Hall" feature of the broadcasts.

Billie Burke will be a guest performer on the first show, which will introduce two new Good News stars — Walter Huston and Roland Young--as well as a new regularly fea-

As one of the highlights, Meredith Willson will play "Barcarrolle" from "The Tales of Hoffman," the first of a Concert Hall series of "Ten Kings of Melody." At the close of the program, Willson will announce the name of the first of ten famous American composers, who have been commissioned to write American classics ductor-planist. During the concert in the same form as the recognized musical classics. This first Stewart will be heard as soloist composer, as yet unnamed, will be with the orchestra in Grainger's commissioned to write a classic "Handel in the Strand." American Barcarolle.

Huston, who will be master-ofceremonies, will sing "Beer Barrel Polka" with the orchestra and chorus to open the show. And Young and Miss Burke will launch the program's dramatic season in a radio version of Saki's comedy, "The Baker's Dozen."

Connie Boswell's singing will mark the world premiere of "Lilacs in the Rain," which is the "second movement" of the original piano composition, "Deep Purple." She will also sing "The Lamp Is Low." Willson's orchestra will also continue its series of "melodies you didn't expect to hear."

The present world crisis will be climaxed on November 27, 1939, according to the prophetic "vision" of the Great Pylamid of Egypt, the story of which will be dramatized on Strange As It Seems, 'Mystery of the Ages" has foretold the history of the world correctly for more than 4,000 years, including the Great Flood, the birth of Christ, the World war, the 1929 depression and the present period of world trouble, which purportedly will last until 1953. Alois Havrilla, master-of-ceremonies, also will present the true tale of two neighboring cities, divided by an international boundary line, that ignored a war between their respective countries; and the story of one of the weirdest oddities in the history of baseball—the scoring of a run by a dead ballplayer.

QUILNA

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the distinguished British actor, sacrificed a small fortune to play the role of Dr. Livingstone in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Stanley and Livingstone," at the Quilna theatre, with Spencer Tracy, Nancy Kelly and Richard Greene in stellar roles.

For Sir Cedric has wanted to portray the famous explorer-mise sionary even since he was a boy. One of the most elusive of all actors where films are concerned, he has turned down scores of parts because they did not appeal to him. But in order to play the hero of his boyhood days at Bridgnorth School in England, the actor closed the tour of his play, "Shadow and Substance," four months before schedule. It was Zanuck who persuaded Sir Cedric to come to Hollywood five years ago to play the bishop in "Les Miserables," and he re-turned two years later to appear

Spencer Tracy shares the title role as Henry M. Stanley, the great newspaper man who found Livingstone in the black heart of Africa. Others prominently featured in the cast are Walter Brennan, Charles Coburn, Henry Hull
