writes.

Jerry Pero and Paul Moore were convicted at their last trial in circuit court at Ashland, and they spent the interval until their second trial was called in prison at Waupun, Circuit Judge Gullick N. Risjord sentenced them to life terms there in 1927 after a jury found them guilty of the murder of Millward Fillmore Marks, 78year-old Odanah druggist, Pero taught in the prison school and studied law on the side. Moore worked in the machine shop and studied law, too, in his spare moments.

As a result of their studies they concluded they were convicted on circumstantial evidence which could be disproved. Moore's mother, Mary, who died last week, constantly was active in their behalf. Two Indian attorneys, Tom St. Germaine and William J. Kershaw, carried a ha-beas corpus fight through the federal court in Milwaukee. Their contention that the defendants were federal wards and therefore were tried unjustly in a state court without jurisdiction was upheld. But before the two could be released, a federal grand jury in Madison indicted them anew on charges of murder and retrial was ordered.

National Guard State Increase by 1,000 Expected

Authorization to increase the Wisconsin national guard by about 1,000 men to a strength of nearly 5,700 is expected within the next few days, the adjutant general's office said today. Plans for the increase, part of a national expansion of the guard, were made at meetings of the state staff during the past two days.

AN ABSURD TOEA

THE WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL

IN THE WORLD of duplicate bridge the thought seems to be abroad among many fair players that, if you can make game at either a suit or No Trump con-tract, it is better to play it at No Trump. Presumably this is because the same number of tricks will count ten more points at No Trump. That part is logical as far as it goes, but suppose the hand is one which naturally should be played in a suit bid. In such a case there may be one more trick at the suit contract than at No Trump, possibly two or three
