

De Mille Scorns Questionnaire On Private Lives

Petting Held Entirely Up To Individual

Director Says He Has Too Much Work To Mind Others Lives

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—(AP)— Cecil B. DeMille put a serious crimp in the indoor sport of sending questionnaires to college girls about their private lives.

Such questions are handed to students by the scores and the hundreds and you usually see the results in page three of your newspaper, with some such heading as "Ideal Girl Refuses to Pet."

One of the busiest of the question-asking organizations is "The American College Girl" of New York, which does business with such schools as Tufts, Cornell, Syracuse, Temple, Long Island university and many another. Last year it had on its question committee such experts on petting and allied subjects as Emily Post, Bruce Barton, Walter Pitkin, Fannie Hurst, Lowell Thomas, Eddie Cantor and James Montgomery Flagg.

This year the "American College Girl" tried to get DeMille. He exploded as only he can explode when he was asked:

1. Whether girls should pet. 2. Whether they needed chaperons at week-end parties. 3. Whether it was okay for them to propose marriage.

There were numerous similar questions. Girls at the colleges represented, it was explained, will be asked the same questions and the one who comes closest to the consensus of the committee will be selected "The American College Girl of 1939."

DeMille said he was mightily busy making a movie about the Northwest Mounted Police, but that his real reason for refusing to participate was his distaste for attempting to raise other people's children.

"I prefer not to be so impudent," he said. "I have sufficient faith in the American girls' own judgment in matters of conduct. America can be no better than its womanhood and in my opinion the country's future is in good hands."

That wasn't all DeMille said, but it gives you the idea. So far as we know he's the first prominent American ever to refuse to delve into the personal affairs of college women. As such he deserves a medal.

ENGINE OWNER PAYS FINE FOR ROAD DAMAGE

KENTON, Sept. 16.—Gus Koch of Wapakoneta reported to Har-din-co officials in a harassed state of mind yesterday that he didn't mind misplacing minor articles such as his glasses or pen and pencil but when it came to losing a four-wheeled 25 horsepower steam engine, he felt that some kind of aid was needed in the search.

Koch appeared in Sheriff Lloyd Norman's office to report the "theft" of the steam engine from its parking place at the edge of State Route 67 at Anstine hill near Roundhead. The owner told officials he was pulling a wagon behind the engine on route to another wood cutting job in the Roundhead vicinity the previous night.

A member of the state highway patrol sighted the "caravan" and ordered Koch to leave the engine at the side of the road for the evening because wheel hubs were cutting into the hot road surface.

Koch obliged but when he returned to the spot in the morning he found only the wagon, sans steam engine. As he completed his report to local officials, the "culprit," a member of the state highway patrol, appeared and reported the engine's new resting place as the highway garage in Wapakoneta where it was hauled during the night in a truck to prevent road damage.

Grover Friedger of near Wapakoneta, driver of the machine, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an overweight motor vehicle and was fined $25 and costs by Justice Roy Hauden-schild here.

M'Carthy And Bergen Return To Old Spot Sunday Night

Tall Tales Of Waikiki Probable As Pair Joins With Gang; Gale Page To Sing In New Radio Drama

Tall tales of Waikiki, and a rousing welcome to the returning vacationers, Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen, will be highlights of the Don Ameche hour Sunday. Helen Broderick, screen and radio comedienne, and Fred MacMur-ray will be the guest stars on the program, heard over WEAF at 7:00 p. m. Nelson Eddy, Don Ameche, Dorothy Lamour and the members of Robert Armbuster's orchestra will be the interested but perhaps skeptical welcoming committee.

Gale Page's second opportunity in recent weeks to sing in a Hollywood Playhouse production will come in the WJZ broadcast Sunday at 8:00 p. m. Playing opposite Jim Ameche, the young actress will be heard in the role of a night club singer in a radio adaptation of Octavus Roy Cohen's short story, "Words and Music," which appeared originally in the American magazine.

It's a glad, glorious, exciting adventure in words and music you've never heard before — with lovely Gale Page and Jim Ameche as the romantic duo supplying the harmony. The role of Katherine Still-man, night club singer in this light comedy-romance offers Miss Page an unusual opportunity to exercise her unusual singing talent. Jim Ameche as Larry Drake, ace-song-plugger, guarantees another stringently one-key performance. When a man wags his eye-wag to the accompaniment of her fiancé's music, that's not news—it's "Words and Music," with not a single source note from beginning to end.

Memories of the house-party in New England rapidly fade as Henry Aldrich faces the open road without a dime in his pocket during the broadcast of "The Aldrich Family." Sunday, from 6:00 to 8:00 p. m., over WEAF. With 600 miles separating them from home, Henry and his pal, Dizzy, find that it is anything but a lark to cover such a distance without benefit of cash, and it rapidly develops into the case of an educated thug.

In good movie style the "Musical Playhouse" broadcast of Sunday, Sept. 17, at 6:30 p. m., over WABC will take the form of a musical "trailer" for the "Screen Guild Theatre" that starts the following week at that time.

Erno Rapee and his concert orchestra, Jan Froman, Jan Pearce and the choir will bow out their
