War Correspondent To Bare Propaganda Methods On Air

George Seldes Set On Inside Story Program At 7 P. M. Tuesday Via WJZ; Tennis Champ Also Booked

How one may weigh the barrage of propaganda in war news will be discussed by George Seldes, author and former war correspondent, during The Inside Story program over WJZ at 7 p. m. Tuesday. He will illustrate his talk with examples of propaganda methods. Seldes is the author of "You Can't Print That," "The Truth Behind the News" and "Iron, Blood and Profits."

Tennis champion Alice Marble, and Benny "The Eye" Finkle, will also appear on the program. Miss Marble will reveal whether she will try the movies, radio, night club work, or stick strictly to her tennis. Finkle, who has a reputation of being able to fix boxing bouts by hexing the fighter he doesn't like by giving him the eye, will tell if and how he does the trick.

Fable foisting Fibber McGee will attempt to foil his frail, Molly, when the comedy stars broadcast from mythical Wistful Vista Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., over WEAF. Molly, however, promises not to be fooled so easily, since she long has been accustomed to taking everything Fibber says with a shaker of salt. Tenor solos by Donald Novis and music by Billy Mills' orchestra will round out the Hollywood broadcast.

Johnny the Call Boy, and orchestra leader Johnny Green, will team up to offer their comedy version of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" as a feature of the Johnny Presents program Tuesday. The musical program, at 7 p. m., over WEAF, also will spotlight Green's new tune, "You Brought Me to My Senses," "You Are Old, Father William," "Eighteenth Century Drawing Room," "Ding-Dong, the Witch is Dead" and "Running Thru My Mind" also will be heard.

P. Hal Sims, super sportsman and expert at cards, will engage in about the only kind of contest he hasn't tried yet when he serves on the Information Please board of experts in the WJZ broadcast of Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m.

He is the world champion at bridge, twice amateur champion at three-cornered billiards, twice runner-up in national amateur trap-shooting, is considered by experts to be the world's second best poker player, plays golf in the low seventies and will bet with anybody on anything.

He has won hundreds of thousands at baccarat and chemin de fer at Monte Carlo and was offered two per cent of the casino's profits to act as banker, but replied that he plays only for fun. He once owned a stable of race horses. In the last World war, Sims flew in the British Royal Flying Corps, was shot down once and seriously wounded.

The other guest expert serving with John Kieran and Franklin P. Adams on this program will be Oscar Levant, pianist and composer.

Sophie Tucker's first national radio appearance this season will be made on the premiere of Walter O'Keefe's Tuesday Night Party at 7:30 p. m. over WABC.

Pinchhitting for Mary Martin, detained in Hollywood on a picture-making commitment, the last of the red hot mammas (a native of Boston, too) will sing a laundered version of "Most Gentlemen Don't Like Love," the song from "Leave It To Me," which almost matches Mary Martin's famous song, "My Heart Belongs To Daddy," from the same show.

O'Keefe will do his own version of "Ten Cents A Dance" and Bobby Dolan's orchestra will feature "Ding Dong, the Witch is Dead." Highlight of the half hour show will be O'Keefe's object lesson how to sell a President—wrapped in cellophane—to the nation's voters.

Maxine Jennings is one Hollywood film actress who will be given the opportunity to show the radio audience what she knows about the picture business when she appears on Mr. District Attorney, Tuesday at 9:00 p. m. over WEAF.

Authors of the program are currently whipping up a "Who-Dunnit" which will feature Maxine, a former picture star in real life, in the role of "Vivian La-Haze," famous Hollywood star who comes to New York to do a Broadway play. En route, she wires the D. A. for protection, saying that she fears foul play. The D. A. meets her at the station—there's a shot—and a press agent gets fired for perpetrating a publicity hoax. Later on, the actress is really murdered so the D. A. has a job. The program will be the final one on WEAF prior to its move to WJZ on Oct. 1st. Bob Hope will be back in the Tuesday spot Sept. 26th.

Ultra modern arrangements of current swing tunes will pervade the loudspeaker on Tuesday when Artie Shaw and his orchestra take off on another jam and jive session over WJZ at 8:00 p. m. The clarinet virtuoso and his band currently are on a personal appearance tour which will be terminated when they open an engagement at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York, on Oct. 12. Warren Hull will emcee the broadcast.

Edward G. Robinson, in his racket-busting role of Steve Wilson, the two-fisted editor of the "Illustrated Press," will return to the airlanes with radio's "Big Town," at 7 p. m. over WABC.

Robinson again will crusade against the imaginary "Big Town's" racketeers and schemers, keeping the program paced with the events of the day in line with the successful policy under which the program has been broadcast for the past two years.

Tentative plans for the cast will bring most of the "regulars" on the show back to the microphone, with the exception of Lorelei, Steve's society editor.

Miss Ona Munson, Hollywood film star, has been selected for this part, to succeed Claire Trevor, who played the role last year. Miss Munson is an actress who is also possessed with a singing voice, a factor which may introduce a few musical angles to the series.

That Rouben Manoulian, famed motion picture director, secretly aspires to be a lawyer or a detective is not pure speculation. The Russian-born director of "Golden Boy" and other successful films studied law at the University of Moscow, and always has had a passion for detective stories. In his first radio interview, Mamoulian will tell about these ambitions during the If I Had the Chance program, Tuesday.

Others to bare their secrets will be Pietro Di Donato, former WPA laborer whose new book, "Christ in Concrete," is a best seller; Vernon Duke, composer and George Clark, cartoonist. Mort Lewis will conduct the interviews over WJZ at 9:30 p. m.

Mr. Wong Film Due To Open Wednesday On Lyric Screen

Boris Karloff Plays Title Role In New Mystery; "Top Hat" Second Hit On Double Bill

Mr. Wong, Chinese super-sleuth portrayed by Boris Karloff, matches wits once again with an ingenious murderer in "Mystery of Mr. Wong," half of the Lyric's bill which starts Wednesday. A rice paper cigaret helps Karloff solve a crime.

"Top Hat," also will show Wednesday. Closing Tuesday are "Everybody's Baby," with the Jones family, and "Homicide Bureau," featuring Bruce Cabot.

Two new pictures, "Miracles for Sale," and "Sorority House," are scheduled to open Wednesday at the Sigma.

Comedy and mystery galore are found in the former picture while the other is a story of young girls and their lovers. Closing Tuesday is "Dust Be My Destiny," with John Garfield and Priscilla Lane.

Garfield is cast as a boy who never had a chance, but after he is responsible for the capture of a bandit gang he sees life differently.

Gripping drama and breathless emotional situations abound in "In Name Only," which will continue thru Wednesday at the Ohio theatre. With a star-studded cast including Carole Lombard, Cary Grant, and Kay Francis, the film is a searching depiction of a man's endeavor to obtain his release from a mercenary, wily wife so that he can marry the woman he really loves.

The Renfro Valley Barn Dance cast will be on the Ohio stage Thursday only.

Altho Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea have the leading roles in "Union Pacific," at the State, many other Hollywood favorites are seen. Akim Tamiroff—this time as a tough Mexican railroad cop — and Lynne Overman — as a hard-bitten frontiersman of the old school, ride, fight and work together in the story of America's great railroad-building feat.

"Golden Boy," now at the Quilna, is a story of a boy played by William Holden, a violin player, who wants to become a big shot. After many months of fighting he gets his chance to battle for the crown. A girl, portrayed by Barbara Stanwyck, his father, Lee J. Cobb, make him change his mind after a little incident.

SIGMA

"Miracles For Sale," fantastic drama of sinister seers, mysterious magicians and murder, opens at the Sigma Wednesday with Robert Young, Florence Rice, Frank Craven, Henry Hull and Lee Bowman in a bizarre adventure in modern witchcraft. Adapted from Clayton Rawson's mystery novel, "Death from a Top Hat," it was directed by Tod Browning.

Young plays a magician who turns detective to solve two killings among a group of magicians, mind readers and clairvoyants, all suspected by the police. He turns magic against the magic the murderer uses to complicate the crimes and a tense dramatic climax affords the solution.

Stage illusions such as "Sawing a Woman in Half," the "Headless Woman," and the bullet trick in which Miss Rice catches a fired rifle bullet in her teeth, ghost materializations form an uncanny background. Craven plays the principal comedy role.

Players inclue Cliff Clark, Astrid Allwyn, Walter Kingsford, Frederic Worlock, Gloria Holden and William Demarest.

What goes on behind the closed doors of a modern sorority house is dramatically revealed in the current Anne Shirley vehicle, "Sorority House."

The talented young actress is cast as a college co-ed whose greatest ambition is to join one of the Greek-letter-groups in her alma-mater, only to be disillusioned when she learns the activties of the supposedly fashionable organization.

James Ellison is cast opposite Miss Shirley as a young student who falls in love with her during "rush" week.

OHIO

Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis, who won their present reputations in certain types of roles, revert to the kind of portrayals which first brought them to fame years ago in one of moviedom's more significant entertainments of the year, "In Name Only," at the Ohio.

In recent years Miss Lombard has scored with her vivacious comedienne characterizations in pictures like "True Confession" and "Nothing Sacred." However, she started her career in strictly serious romantic parts. As a charming young widow who hestiates to break up the marriage of the man she loves, even tho she knows it to be a thoroly unhappy marriage, she has a serious romantic role "In Name Only."

Grant has specialized in adventurous roles, alternated with serio-comic portrayals, in recent vehicles —"Gunga Din," "The Awful Truth," "Only Angels Have Wings," "Bringing Up Baby." But he started out in pictures as a forthright type of hero. In the new film he is cast as a disillusioned husband seeking freedom from a thoroly mercenary wife—a very different part from anything he has done for a long time.

Miss Francis also "changes her spots." For years she has been playing heroine roles, but as fans all know, she was originally the female "menace." In "In Name Only" she is again in such a characterization as the grasping wife who refuses to give up her husband, even tho she doesn't care for him.

Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis are supported by a notable group of players, headed by Charles Coburn, Helen Vinson, Katharine Alexander, Jonathan Hale, Maurice Moscovich and Nella Walker.

QUILNA

Barbara Stanwyck was something of a hero-worshipper in her childhood, and that's one reason she is a star today. Of Scotch-Irish descent, the lovely young actress had a vague idea of emulating the missionaries in China. She even taught Sunday school in preparation for that great day.

And then she saw the famous Isadora Duncan dance, and promptly transferred her allegiance. Miss Stanwyck decided she wanted to be like Isadora Duncan and promptly obtained a job as a dancer in the old Strand Club, 48th St. and Broadway, New York City.

Quite by coincidence, Barbara made her first scene in "Golden Boy," now at the Quilna Theatre, in an office which, according to Clifford Odets, author of the play, was located at 48th and Broadway. With her in the scene were her co-stars, Bill Holden, the youth chosen from more than 3,000 candidates for the title role, and Adolphe Menjou, as a fight manager and sports world impresario.

A chorus engagement in the musical show, "Keep Cool," followed. It was during the run of this show at the Globe Theatre that Barbara first won recognition. Miss Stanwyck and five other girls were picked to do imitations of the principals. Her bit was an impersonation of Louis Wolheim as the "Hairy Ape."

"It was a far cry from my dreams of becoming a missionary or a classic dancer," she remembers, "but it landed me a job in a Ziegfeld show."

Miss Stanwyck was in the Follies for two years, then returned to cabaret work. She attracted the attention of producer Arthur Hopkins and when the stage production of "Burlesque" was cast, she was given the role of Bonnie. The play was sensational successful and established the actress as a leading Broadway star. Bonnie, consequently, is her favorite stage role.
