Fred Allen And Ned Sparks Clash In "Dead Pan" Battle

First Sneering Contest Over Air Waves Set At 9 P. M. Wednesday On New Town Hall Show

The two most famous dead-pans in show business will be brought together when Fred Allen plays host to Ned "Sour-puss" Sparks on the initial broadcast of the new Allen show over WEAF Wednesday at 9 p. m.

In the first sneering contest ever held on the air, Fred will interview Sparks, not on how he has lived, but "Why?" Allen is recognized eastern sour-puss champion, while Sparks holds a similar title on the Pacific coast.

After interviewing the guest star, first in his new series of distinguished personalities, Allen will cast him in one of the famous Mighty Allen Art dramas, those insults to the footlights.

Allen has selected Wynn Murray, a stage and radio veteran at 19 and a graduate of the Children's Hour, as the singing star.

The Merry Macs swing quartet, three boys and a girl who last year were acclaimed by the nation's jitterbugs and rug-cutters to be the hottest swing group of their kind on the air, have been signed again. The group is composed of three brothers, Judd, Ted, and Joe McMichael, and an ex-University of Indiana beauty queen, Helen Carroll. In a little over a year on the Allen program, they have risen from the unknowns to an important position on radio, stage, and screen.

Guest stars of the first magnitude, a featured girl singer, an audience quiz spot, new novelty acts and a new routine will distinguish the new broadcast series from the Old Town Hall Tonight show which Fred presented for six consecutive years. Among the old personalities retained are the Merry Macs, famous swign quartet; Peter von Steeden and his orchestra, Portland Hoffa, radio's most persistent heckler; Harry von Zell, announcer extraordinary and ace stooge, and the Mighty Allen Art Players.

When Woodbury's Hollywood Playhouse opens its Fall season of dramatic productions over WEAF on Wednesday, leading man Herbert Marshall will have as his guest star, Madeleine Carroll, British film actress. Miss Carroll will be heard opposite Marshall in a radio adaptation of A. A. Milne's romance, "Michael and Mary."

The play, to be broadcast at 8:00 p. m., deals with a vicious blackmail plot which threatens to end fourteen years of marital happiness for the two principals. Miss Carroll, as Mary, finds refuge from a background of misery in a marriage with young artist Michael, played by Marshall. The blackmail campaign ends on a happy note, however, when the plotter conveniently succumbs to a weak heart. The Hollywood Playhouse dramatizations, formerly heard on Sundays, will be broadcast each Wednesday.

A new announcer, Truman Bradley, and a new sponsor, are the only new factors in her radio entourage to confuse zany Gracie Allen when she returns to the air Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. over WABC with her long-suffering partner, George Burns.

Tenor Frank Parker will be back to harangue about his various girl friends and Bandsman-Stooge Ray Noble is reported with a pocketfull of new (?) English jokes.

Those famous Broadway and Hollywood actors, Fredric March and Florence Eldridge, who just closed in "The American Way," will reverse their real state when they appear in Philip Barry's "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," on the weekly Star Theatre broadcast next Wednesday at 9:00 p. m. over WABC

In real life, March and Eldridge are a happy, married couple. In the Barry play, March plays an outsider who disturbs a married woman, played by Miss Eldridge. This play was selected by the Marches themselves, who postponed a Hollywood movie assignment to remain in New York and do the broadcast. Perhaps their interest in the drama, which they have wanted to do for years, may be explained by the fact that they themselves have adopted children, and the adoption of a child is an important point in the play.

BIG GAIN REPORTED IN COUNTY RECORDER FEES

(Special To The Lima News)

VAN WERT, Oct. 4 — A big gain in fees collected on instruments filed for recording during September over that of a year ago was reported by W. O. Taylor, Van Wert-co recorder.

The receipt total for the past month was $357 compared to $249 during the corresponding month in 1938. The increase in business, Taylor said, was largely due to the increase in deeds filed, which was 141 compared to 65 during September last year.

Mortgages on real estate filed increased from 51 to 66, while chattel mortgages filed declined from 239 to 176, Taylor said.

Double Bill At The Sigma Promises To Thrill Patrons

"Career" And New "Torchy" Film Being Screened; "The Rains Came" Continues At The Quilna

A significant drama of small town life in an average American vilage is seen in "Career," half of the Sigma bill which stars Alice Eden and John Archer, the finalists in the first nationwide "Gateway to Hollywood" talent quest.

"Torchy Plays With Dynamite," starring Jane Wyman, Allen Jenkins and Tom Kennedy, also is showing. In the beginning of the picture Tochy lands in jail to get evidence about a shop-lifter.

Continuing to thrill fans at the Quilna theatre is "The Rains Came," with George Brent, Myrna Loy and Tyrone Power. Miss Loy is seen as a lovely lady whom the world had never denied anything she wanted; Power is seen as a great man to his people and whom Miss Loy loves, while Brent is seen as a heavy drinker who, after seeing Miss Loy, decides that life is worth living.

Adventure and action are excitingly combined in "Racketeers of the Range," now at the Lyric starring George O'Brien. The film deals with an up-to-date cattle war in Arizona. Marjorie Reynolds has the feminine lead.

"Crime Takes a Holiday," also is showing at the Lyric.

"These Glamour Girls," now at the Ohio theatre, is the story of what happens to a young college man when six girls train their guns on him. Those who have featured roles in this comedy are Lana Turner, Lew Ayres, Ann Rutherford and Tom Brown.

Closing Wednesday at the State are "Daughters Courageous" and "Big Town Czar." The first story shows how a mother and her four daughters treat their father after he returns after being gone 20 years. Complications set in when the wife, played by Fay Bainter, tells her husband, Claude Rains, that she is soon to be married. The Lane Sisters have big parts.

The other picture stars Barton MacLane and Tom Brown.

"You Can't Get Away With Murder," and "Bridal Suite," are scheduled to start Thursday.

QUILNA

Joseph Schildkraut, who is noted for the deftness with which he plays difficult characterizations, has his most unusual, and perhaps his most difficult role to date, in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Rains Came," the sensationally successful Louis Bromfield best-seller, starring Myrna Loy, Tyrone Power and George Brent at the Quilna.

Schildkraut has the role of Mr. Bannerjee in this film—the Hindu who was a suave, monocle-wearing western gentleman on the surface, but a true Indian underneath. When earthquake and flood strike his city of Ranchipur, Bannerjee reverts abruptly to type, shaves his head, wraps himself in a white dhoti, sprinkles himself with ashes and recalls the ancient Sanskrit chants of his youth.

Myrna Loy plays the amorous lady Esketh, Tyrone Power is seen as Major Safti, George Brent plays Tom Ransome, and all the rest of Bromfield's fascinating characters are also vividly brought to life in this filmization of "The Rains Came." The supporting cast features Brenda Joyce, star-maker Zanuk's latest discovery; Nigel Bruce, Maria Ouspenskaya, Schildkraut, Mary Nash, Jane Darwell, Marjorie Rambeau, Henry Travers and H. B. Warner.

LYRIC

Telling an exciting tale of modern Arizona and its cattle troubles, George O'Brien's latest picture, "Racketeers of the Range," is at the Lyric theatre.

The story deals with a resourceful cattleman's single-handed battle against a big packing corporation that threatens to monopolize the packing field and bring ruin to himself and his fellow ranchers. The big corporation has convinced the girl owner of the local packing plant that she should sell out, and when the cattleman finds his arguments useless, he has the smaller outfit thrown into bankruptcy and gets himself appointed receiver.

He hopes to maneuver the company out of its financial troubles before the receivership ends, but finds unexpected opposition from his cattleman associates, as well as from the corporation men. Finally he agrees to buy the local herds himself and get them to the plant, but he runs into big-scale rustling, with the crooks using fast motor-trucks to carry away their loot; moreover, he is nearly kidnapped himself. The rescue of the girl in the case, and of a train-load of cattle, after an exciting running fight in the mountains, affords a fast climax to the film.

O'Brien has an excellent opportunity for his rugged type of outdoor portrayal, and Marjorie Reynolds makes a charming heroine. Chill Wills, Gay Seabrook, Robert Fiske, Ray Whitley, Monte Montague and other well-known players are in the supporting cast of the Bert Gilroy production for RKO radio. D. Ross Lederman directed, from the Oliver Drake screenplay based on Bernard McConville's story.

OHIO

When women declare social war anything can happen and it all does, according to reports, in "These Glamour Girls," new comedy drama which comes to the Ohio theatre Wednesday with Lew Ayres and Lana Turner in the featured roles. The picture is heralded as the last word in a comedy of youth and modern manners. Redheaded, dynamic Miss Turner achieves her first top billing assignment as the Dime-a-Dance hostess who puts herself on the spot by accepting the invitation of Lew Ayres, a college boy on a bender, to attend the exclusive week-end parties at Kingsford university and immediately is plunged into battle with a battalion of Park Avenue debutantes. From there on, it is said, the entertainment values soar thru comedy, pathos and drama, with Miss Turner accomplishing a neat histrionic job and Lew Ayres adding another topnotch performance as the boy between the battlers. M-G-M gathered together the outstanding youth and beauty of Hollywood for this picture. In the cast are Tom Brown, Richard Carlson, Jane Byan, Ann Rutherford, Mary Beth Hughes, Owen Davis, Jr., Sumner Getchell and Peter Hayes. Anita Louise, as Daphne Graves, the leader of the defending debutantes, plays the first heavy role of her career. Marsha Hunt likewise changes her screen mold and appears as a tragic character, a perennial prom girl who, sensing the loss of her popularity, prefers suicide to humiliation.

BIGELOW PLAN ENDORSED BY EDWARD LAMB

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4—(UP)—Edward Lamb, Toledo, executive vice president of the national lawyers guild, today endorsed objectives of the Bigelow "$50-a-month" old age pension amendment.

He said that altho "there may be minor defects" in the amendment corrective action by the legislature would assure successful operation.

"Certainly no one will deny that the broad outlines of the Bigelow amendment contain certain honest principles of taxation," he said.

"The plan of taxing highly productive land is not only just but will eliminate the frequently announced threat of tax-shirkers who constantly announce removal of assets to other states. The exemptions offered upon homesteads by the Bigelow amendment is economically sound and politically honest."
