Gene Autry And Fred Allen Set For Two-Gun Interview

Dead-Pan Comedian Priming Himself To Shoot It Out With "Buck" Benny; Al Pearce Has New Singing Group

Gene Autry, famous cowboy film hero, will face the twoan wit of Funnyman Fred Allen in a six shooter interview during the hour broadcast over WEAF Wednesday at 9 p. m. The Merry Macs, Wynn Murray, Peter van Steeden and his orchestra, Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell and the Mighty Allen Art Players will stand by to see that each man has a fair chance on the draw.

Allen has heard that his arch rival, Jack Benny, is making a horse opera to be entitled "Buck Benny Rides Again." Not to be outdone by the violin-playing comedian, Fred will

The play will star Edward Everett Horton and Lucille Watson, and was originally produced Eastern Standard-Subtract One Hr. on Broadway in the fall of 1933. The comedy deals with the story (Changes in programs as listed due to off a society girl taken from her last-minute network corrections) of a society girl taken from her mild husband by a rich and domineering aunt. The aunt splits the family because she decides that her niece is not living in style. The spouse, unknown to the wife's aunt, sneaks into the household in the guise of a man-of-all-work to be near his wife. In that capacity he makes a hit with his rich relatives, who backs him in a career as a radio crooner.
