Clark Gable's Canine Comes Near Ruining Scene

Pet Attempts To Save Star During Fight

Retriever Will Be Left At Home Henceforth: · Smith Still Unseen

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 — (INS) It will be a long time before Clark Gable's new Labrador retriever, Joekay, is invited back to a film set.

A gift from Nick Taylor of Minneapolis, huntsman friend of the star, the dog, a blue-ribbon winner, was delivered to the set of "Strange Cargo."

After playing with the dog and becoming well acquainted with it during the morning, Gable was called to the outdoor location on the studio's back lot during the afternoon, for a fight scene with Albert Dekker which ends with them both in deep water. The dog was taken along and was held at the edge of the water by stand-in Lou Smith.

The retriever kept quiet and everything was fine until Dekker grasped Gable by the throat and forced his head under water. Just as Director Frank Borzage called "Cut," the dog broke away, made one terrific lunge into the water and grasped Gable by the collar, intent on saving his life. While the star appreciated the dog's loyalty, he will take him henceforth on hunting trips instead of to the film sets. Jockay's good intentions came too close to ruining the scene. That promised threat of a first sight of Pete Smith, the famed unseen star on the screen, has done a quick fadeout. Reason is that Pete has backed down.

Long promised was Pete's appearance in his latest M-G-M specialty, "Third-Dimensional Murder," the latest of his audioscopics three dimension films. Pete went so far as to have Script Writer Jerry Hoffman name the leading character - Pete Smith.

The commentator was all primed to do the role when suddenly be got cold feet. He claimed too much work: a face that his fans wouldn't like; lumbago; a cold in the head; rheumatism; laryngitis and innumerable other ailments. Besides, he preferred to remain

Stage Revue Is Booked At Ohio Theatre

A "spot booking" the term used in show business to signify the contracting of a show on short notice, has made it possible for the Ohio theatre to present the patriotic stage hit of the season, "Hooray America" for Wednesday and Thursday. An open date between two towns came to the attention of city manager, of Warner theatre, Wallace Elliott. When revorts of "Hooray America" revealed that It is one of the best of the larger traveling road attractions, a quick booking resulted here. "Hooray America" revue is reputedly the most mangnificently staged and costumed stage show containing more talent than any other show on the road.

Fifty theatre-cafe entertainers are in the cast including the world-renowned Clymas troupe. in their breath-taking "Shanghai Sal," the most amazing scene ever presented on the American stage Other acts embrace such outstanding names as the famous Radio Jesters, serio-comic impersonaters: Marcia Harris, toe tap dancer; Roobia Doobie, rubber faced comedien and a rito of fun: the Three Byrons, three crazy sailors; Dorothy Murray, singer and protege of Rudy Vallee's famous radio hour; Val Maher brothers, hand balancers; Steve Dey, whirlwind tap dancer, Til & Yago, fire dancers; and a host of others, with 30 beautiful all-American Dancing sweethearts, 19 lavish scenes, 150 gorgeous costumes. Included in this great stage extravaganza will be, Hugh Emmons and his orchestra, popular orchestra leader.

Popular prices will prevail, altho the "Hooray America" revue is of real road-show proportions. Deluxe shows will be presented each day during the engagement. On the screen the Ohio theatre offers "Rio" with an all-star cast including Basil Rathbone, Victor McLaglen, Sigrid Gurie, Leo Carillo and Robert Cummins. The current Ohio attraction is "Remember." starring Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres.

Autry Movie Showing For Lyric's Fans

Smiley "Frog" Burnette is recognized as one of the screen's leading comedians in roles such as that which he portrays in Republic's new Gene Autry starrer, "Rovin' Tumbleweeds," current Lyric theatre western feature. His is the triumphant story of a poor boy who believed in himself and his ability to make people laugh. Less than six years ago Smiley shoveled snow from the streets of a small town in Illinois to earn a living. For pocket money, so that: he might have an occasion date, he sold hot dogs at Illinois football games. But in spite of this honest, but lowly way of earning "eatin'" money, Smiley had faith in himself.
