Aged Pension Drive Perils FR Economy

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE
WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration's reported economic plans for the coming session of congress were threatened this week by a new drive originating in the so-called "poorer" states to saddle on the federal government a larger share of the cost of caring for the nation's aged indigent. The movement developed as the federal security administration prepared to enact on Jan. 1 the old age insurance provision of the social security act which will make monthly benefits available to an estimated 912,000 persons before the end of next year. This estimate is based on the assumption there will be approximately 485,000 persons 65 years of age or older who are entitled to benefits. Experts estimated more than $110,000,000 will be paid out in benefits under this feature of the law during 1940. Democratic leaders intend to use this expense as an argument against the contention of the "poorer" state congressmen that the government bear an increased share of the old age assistance burden. The assistance and insurance project operate independently. Under the law the government is compelled to match dollar for dollar up to a maximum of $15 monthly advanced by the states to aid their old, impoverished citizens. On Jan. 1, 1940, the ceiling of the government payments will go up to $20 monthly. A total of $225,000,000 was appropriated by congress to meet this expenditure during the current fiscal year. Not all of it will be used, because only a few of the more prosperous states such as New York and California, have been able to approach the $15 figure. Benefits in some of the southern states are extremely low. This led to the attempt at the last session to revise the matching arrangement. Widespread changes in the act are not expected to be recommended by Mr. Roosevelt at the coming session. The only indication to date of a revision which he approves is one to include seamen under the protection of the law.

Manchester's Attach Car of Shoplifters

Formal notice of attachment of a 1938 Buick sedan used by four women shoplifters who operated in several Madison department stores before Christmas was filed Thursday in circuit court on behalf of Harry S. Manchester, Inc. Complaint filed by the store said the quartet's operations there had meant a loss of $750 worth of merchandise and named Sally Lowe and Anastia Mahler as defendants. Both were from Chicago, police said. Miss Lowe was arrested by police as one of the shoplifters and fined on a larceny charge. The car was registered in the other woman's name. Police traced the shoplifters to the car at its parking place on W. Dayton st. and confiscated it. The Mahler woman and the two others were not apprehended. WILLIAM FLEMING DIES SHULLSBURG—William J. The story, given nation-wide publicity, that Gov. Heil gave Eleanor Roosevelt a bottle of wine after she presented him with a cheese from Minnesota's chief executive. The woman apparently presented the milk to Gov. Dickinson because the governor's office has received a letter from Dickinson thanking Heil for the milk, the executive office reported. The woman, who is flying to the 48 state capitals carrying gifts from one governor to another, said in Columbus, Ohio, that Wisconsin's governor gave her the wine to present to Michigan's governor and that the latter refused the gift. She also made the statement that the governor of several other states declined the wine.
