OHIO

Rudvard Kipling's vibrant action romance "The Light That Failed," opens Friday at the Ohio theatre, with a cast of over four hundred, headed by Ronald Colman, Walter Huston, Ida, Lupino, Muriel Angelus, Dudley Digges and many others.

The action is built around the career of Dick Heldar, his childhood sweetheart, Maisie, and a street waif named Bessie who comes to play an important part in his life.

Heldar, portrayed by Colman, is separated from Maisie, played by Muriel Angelus, after they pledge eternal love as children in Engeral days in Detroit, Mich., last land. The boy finds his way into newspaper work where he is "dis-Prof. Oliver Davidson spent the covered" and encouraged by Torpenhow, hard-riding war correspondent of the Richard Harding Davis tradition. Under Torpenmoved from his home to the home how's guidance, Heldar becomes a of Mrs. Regina Lemley, his sister, famous artist and the sensation of who is a nurse and had been the London art world.

At the height of his fame he again meets Maisie, who also has become an artist. Somewhat jealous of Heldar's success, she refuses to marry him until she Miss Gertrude Hilty, who has makes a name for herself. She is been a patient in Bluffton hospital working on a painting called "Melseveral months, returned to her ancholia," which is severely criticized by Heldar, who, in a fit of pique, decides to show her up by making a picture with the same theme. For his model he selects the street waif. Bessie, played by Miss Lupino. Bessie falls in love with Torpenhow, and when Heldar breaks up the romance she swears
