The weird tale of Butineau, a Frenchman who could actually see beyond the horizon to foretell the approach of ships days before they finally arrived, will be related by Alois Havrilla on the Strange As It Seems program, Thursday, over WABC at 8:30 p. m. Guest on the broadcast will be 12 year-old Hugh Brady Perkins, of Summerville, West Virginia, whose homing pigeon created a sensation recently by following him away from home.

Butineau, in the 18th century, amazed the entire population of the island of Mauritius with his strange vision. Between 1778 and 1782, he successfully announced the approach of 575 vessels, two to five days ahead of the time they docked. What happened when Marat, the French revolutionary leader, became interested in Butineau's surprising faculty, which supposedly could be acquired by anyone who knew the "secret," will provide an unusual climax to the story.
