

Helen Hayes Scheduled On Radio Theatre Hour Monday

Great Lady Of The Stage To Be Heard In "To The Ladies," Blondie Will Dabble In Politics

Helen Hayes, great lady of the American stage, this week will forsake Red Cross and far refugee work which is currently occupying her time, long enough to fly to Hollywood for her usual yearly appearance as star of the Radio theatre, Monday evening.

"To The Ladies" will mark the end of the current season of one-hour dramas presented by Radio theatre over WABC, Mondays at 8 p. m.

Blondie dabbles in politics Monday at 6:30 p. m. over WABC. Blondie's venture into politics is the result of the political broadcasts she and Dagwood have been staying up late to hear. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake will be starred in the radio version of Chic Young's famous comic strip characters.

Music as spicy as tamales will be featured Monday at 9 p. m., over WEAH when the Carnation Contended orchestra and singers "visit" Mexico. Selections from Franz Lehár's "Eva" will be sung by Margaret Speaks, soprano, on the Voice of Firestone concert, Monday at 7:30 p. m., over WEAH.

WETTEST JUNE ON RECORD REPORTED AT OTTAWA

(Lima News Bureau)
OTTAWA, July 8—Ottawa experienced its wettest June on record this year as 6.9 inches of rain fell, it was reported today by J. T. Maidlow, government weatherman.
This rainfall was received on 13 different days with several heavy storms boosting the total inches. The climax came on Friday, June 28, when 2.1 inches flooded streets and fields in a cloudburst.
The mean maximum temperature was 81 degrees above zero with the mean minimum reading being 60.4 above. The high temperature was 91 on June 7 and the lowest was 45 on June 21.

ROTATION CHANGES TIME

The earth's eastward rotation on its axis causes the celestial scenery to circle westward. Each night a star rises nearly four minutes earlier than on the previous night.

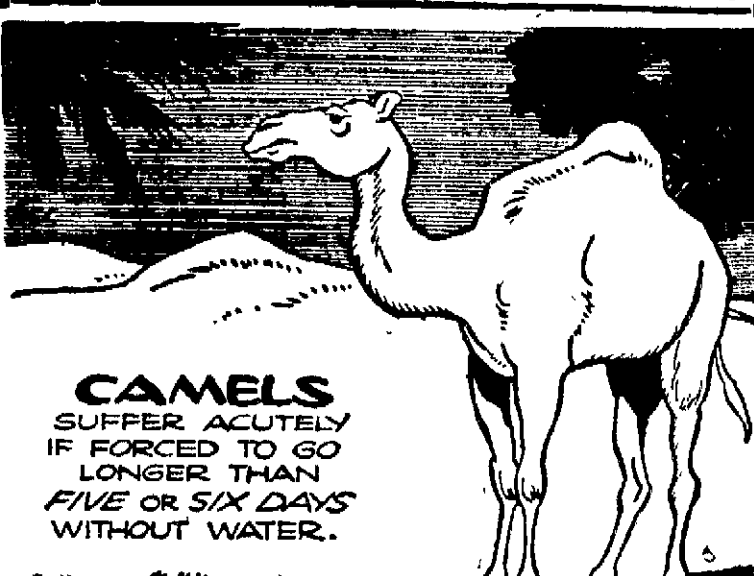

WHOPPING STORIES OF FISHERMEN TAKE TOPS IN WEEK'S SCREWY NEWS

By GLADWIN HILL
NEW YORK, July 8—(AP)—Stretch your arms, boys—the fish-story season seems to have started.
Fish jumping into boats... Fish biting at swing music... Fishermen using buckets... Fishermen catching 'em with their bare hands... They all dropped up in last week's monkey-whine marathon.
The champion fisherman of the week seems to have been Mr. Carroll Hamm of Stamps, Ark.—He pulled in three on one hook.
He was using a goldfish for bait. A big perch struck at the goldfish, and a four-pound bass struck at the perch—And he hauled them all in at once. The goldfish was still intact.
Down at Palestine, Tex., they fished with baskets and buckets.
The Elkhart lake dam broke and flooded the countryside with flopping bass and perch, and all you had to do was scoop 'em up.
Mr. G. D. Murray of Elk City, Neb., didn't even bother fishing with a basket. He speied a big old sturgeon, 5 1/2 feet long and 64 pounds heavy, steaming along in the Elkhorn river. Murray just tapped it on the beam with a club and pulled it ashore with his bare hands.
Down in Currituck, N. C., a state where the fish stories grow even faster than the fish, C. M. Edwards floated around for hours without a bite. Then he turned on some jazz on his portable radio, and immediately landed a half-pound bass.
And if you want to know what's the matter with Kansas, the main thing at the moment seems to be that the fish there are feeble-minded. In Parsons, Kas., the Russell Crawfords and the Bill Thurstons fished long and futilely —and as they were rowing home, a two-pound bass jumped into the boat.

The queerest catch of the week went to Charley Jenkins of Dallas, Tex. He hooked a 'possum—on dry land—when he wasn't even there. Charley walked into his garage and discovered that the 'possum had inadvertently snared itself on his fishing tackle.
Continuing your Goofy Gazette: Along with the advent of the piscatorial silly season, the police also got pixilated. The police chief of Kansas City issued an order to his men to stop shooting spitballs at each other in the courtroom... And the champion marksman of the Lancaster, Pa., police force was suspended for a day for popping his fellow officers with a pea-shooter...
To get people's minds off the 100-degree heat, some citizens of Caldwell, Ida., paraded the streets in Santa Claus costumes and carrying Christmas trees.
A mail carrier in Bethany, Mo., L. A. Parks, spent the first day of his vacation helping another mail carrier make his deliveries.
And, finally, the delayed-letter to end all of them. Postmaster Leroy Smith of Appomattox, Va., got a postcard addressed to "General Lee and General Grant." He sent it back, marked:
"They were here in 1865, but haven't been seen since."

TAKES NEW POST
FINDLAY, July 8—Major and Mrs. Armour McCrae, former leaders of the Salvation Army post in Lima, today assumed their new duties at the head of the Findlay post. They came to Findlay from Columbus where they had been stationed for two years. They succeeded Capt. and Mrs. William Gourlay who were transferred to Middletown, N. Y.

BATH CUSTOMS IN OTHER LANDS ARE SURPRISING

Contrast Sharply With United States Which Owns Most Of Bathtubs

COSTLY IN SOME SPOTS

Public Bathhouses Are Popular Places In Many Foreign Lands

By WILLIS YOUNG
CHICAGO, Ill., July 8—(AP)—Among the strange things still differentiating people in this modern world are the baths they take, how many and just how.

A study of bathing customs, made for the American Medical Association's health magazine, Hygeia, shows that the implements of the bath in various lands include such odd things as sand, snow, birch twigs—and rented water.

The report, by Mildred Brennan of Chicago, indicated that while many national customs have tended to become more alike, the manner of keeping clean remains vastly different.

One reason for contrasts with the United States, it said, is that this country owns 95 per cent of the world's bathtubs.

This situation makes it nice for natives but vexes the innocents who go abroad.

In London, a survey one summer showed 100,000 American visitors in town—and only 4,000 hotel rooms with baths. In Germany bathtubs often have corrugated bottoms.

The "C" on faucets in Italy stands for "Caldo"—which in Italian means hot. The usual result, therefore, of turning on a faucet is painful, or at least surprising, unless tourists accidentally do as the Romans do.

In Paris, it was alleged, only 25 per cent of the population has a private bath in the home.

The French capital has 100 public bath houses, with about 20 tubs each. From statistics on their use it was estimated unofficially (and without confirmation) that Parisians average one tub bath every four months.

A bathtub costs more than a grand piano in Russia. Soap brings $3.50 a cake—and try to find one. Instead of soap, some Russians beat their bodies with bundles of birch twigs, on the theory it opens the pores.

At Karaganda, Russia (50,000 population), the bath house is one scrub brush and a foreign bather must deposit his passport—to insure return of the brush.

Well known are the Japanese public baths, with tanks which accommodate a dozen or more people, water heated to 120 degrees and women attendants who insist on rubbing every bather's back.

Only well-to-do families have private bathrooms.

The Finns, while steaming themselves in the famous log bath huts, swish their bodies with birch or cedar branches to produce a pink glow—and afterwards frequently rub themselves with snow.

In India, natives use a simple tub and because of snakes Europeans have learned to be wary of sponges and to look before they lean into a bath.

On Arabian deserts water can be used only for drinking purposes, so the bath consists of a vigorous rub with sand.

Luberitzbucht in southwest Africa is one of the earth's driest places. Consequently a four-gallon tin of water costs $1. This is not the purchase price, however, but the "rent," for the water is saved and used to water plants.

ODD FELLOWS TO GATHER FOR INSTALLATION

(Lima News Bureau)
OTTAWA, July 8—Notification that a delegation of 60 Odd Fellows from Findlay together with large groups from Delphos and Van Wert will come to Ottawa Tuesday night for the institution of a new encampment, was received today by W. H. Kingsley, recording scribe of the new lodge.

Officers recently elected by the charter members of the encampment will be installed following institution of the encampment, which will bear the name of Blanchard. Officers of the Ohio Encampment, which is in session today at Findlay, will be in charge of instituting the lodge but degree teams from Findlay and Fremont will conduct the installation of officers.

Cisco Kid Hits New Tops In Latest Film At Lyric

Cesar Romero Cast In Title Role Of Fast Moving Hit; "City Of Chance" Is Second Attraction On Double Bill

The Cisco Kid gallops back from the border with both guns blazing in "Viva Cisco Kid," starring Cesar Romero, commencing Tuesday at the Lyric theatre. Also showing will be "City of Chance," with Lynn Bari, C. Aubrey Smith, Donald Woods and Amanda Duff. Showing for the last times Monday is "Carson City Kid" and "Midnight Limited."

Told in strikingly realistic fashion, the romance of a girl who was ashamed of her disreputable family forms the basis of "Primrose Path," now at the State starring Ginger Rogers and Joel McCrea. George Saunders stars in the co-feature, "The Saint's Double Trouble."

"Girl in 313," now at the Quilna starring Florence Rice and Kent Taylor, shows how diamond companies, to protect themselves, sometimes use go-betweens who are not much above the criminal level themselves. Also showing is "Earthbound," starring Warner Baxter in a modern spectacular picture.

Signum Romberg's spellbinding drama of a shipwrecked king of buccaners and a girl who find romance on a tropical island, "New Moon," is now at the Ohio theatre starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. The duo sings such popular favorites as "Lover Come Back," "One Kiss," "Wanting You," and several others.

Joan Crawford returns from England full of enthusiasm for a new movement which is to change all of her friends' lives, despite the fact they are reluctant to change, forming the plot for "Susan and God," now at the Sigma theatre. Co-starring with Miss Crawford is Fredric March, and a supporting cast includes Nigel Bruce, Bruce Cabot, Ruth Hussey, Rita Hayworth and John Carroll.

The first Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy film in more than a year was well worth waiting for. This is proved when "New Moon," starring the two singing favorites, is shown at the Ohio theatre.

Fans of the two singers will find their favorites in exactly the types of roles for which they were intended. Buck again in the costumes and manners of the 1780's, they transport their audience to another world, a world of imagination, song thrills and intrigue which includes in its unfolding, shipwrecks, riots and life on a magical tropic island.

Never has the team appeared at better advantage. Miss MacDonald's beauty as the lovely Marie-Anne de Beaumanoir is rivalled only by her voice as she sings such popular favorites as "Lover Come Back to Me," "Marianne," "Dance," "Rondelet," "One Kiss," and "Wanting You." As the dashing Duc de Villiers, Nelson Eddy is superb. His songs include the stirring "Stout Hearted Men" and the hauntingly lovely "Softly As in a Morning Sunrise."

Appearing in support of Miss MacDonald and Eddy is a strong cast headed by Mary Boland as Miss MacDonald romantically inclined aunt, Valerie. Miss Boland's individual type of comedy is perfectly suited to the characterization. Also giving a good account of themselves are George Zucco, J. B. Warner, Grant Mitchell, Stanley Fields, Richard Purcell, John Miljan, van Simpson, William Tannen, Buntly Cutler, Claude King, Cecil Cunningham, Joe Yule, George Irving, Edwin Maxwell, Paul E. Burns, Rafael Storm and Winifred Harris.

The surprising adventures of a ghost haunted by the living are portrayed in "Earthbound," the film starring Warner Baxter and Andrea Leeds at the Quilna theatre.

There is comedy, pathos, drama and human interest in the moving story of a lost soul who wants to right the wrong he unwittingly caused on earth, but he is unable to contact the right persons.
Thru the medium of modern camera magic, Warner Baxter be-own life develop into a seemingly hopeless tangle, Joan Crawford attains a dramatic assurance which her most devoted fans could have scarcely envisioned. Her performance gives her a new niche in film-dom. And as the inebriate husband, Barrie, who wins the final victory with himself and Susan, Fredric March makes a brilliant return to the screen which he temporarily deserted to star in the stage hit, "The American Way."

Throughout Director George Cukor has succeeded in eliciting sparkling performances. Ruth Hussey as Charlotte, friend of the family in love with Barrie, is warm and understanding. Rita Hayworth is appealingly glamorous as the young actress, Leonora, in love with Actor John Carroll but married to businessman Nigel Bruce. Rita Quigley as Blossom, neglected daughter of Susan and Barrie; Rose Hobart as Irene, hostess at the house party where the action gets under way; Bruce Cabot as sportsman Mike O'Hara, in love with Irene; and Constance Collier as Lady Winstaff, leader of the movement, all give "HIT" to the production.
