HARDIN STARTS WHEAT HARVEST

(Lima News Bureau) Kenton, July 16 - With the wheat harvest expected to reach its peak this week, most wheat already cut is in sheaves and it is anticipated that other fields will be ready for combining late this week. It is also expected that some threshing will star during the Farmers in some parts of Hardin-co report that they attempted to combine late last week but found that the grain was still too green and the straw too tough. Several more days are necessary before the wheat will be ready for working, they believe.

The season was held back a bit by heavy rains and cool weather but it is expected that the straw will be long and the grain heavy.
