Hot Clarinet Player Who Couldn't Stand Jitterbugs Stays In Retirement Until The Honey-moon Is Over

Artie Shaw, the hot-tootin' licorice stick player who gave up swing because he couldn't stand jitter-bugs, returns to the air Monday night with his clarinet and a new band.

Artie will be remembered as the boy who came up the hard way in a hard business. His "licorice" to do something in the field of classical music lasted just about as long as the honeymoon.

At 7 p. m. Monday music-lovers will find a treat by turning to WEAF-WTAM to hear those stellar singers, James Melton and Franca White.

For tuner-inners who like their radio fare different, WJZ will have a real thriller at 8 p. m. The Detroit station will offer "The Green Hornet", a mystery drama.

The rug-cutters can go to work at 10:30 p. m., if the temperature moderates, when Gene Krupa takes to the air over WEAF.

Starting at about the same hour there will be plenty of dance music for the dialers. Del Courtney, at Cedar Point, will come in via WEAF at 11:05 p. m., Hal Kemp at 11:30 from WJZ from Beverly Hills County club and Carl Ravazza's band at 12:30 from Chicago's Famous Colony club via WEAF.

The previous high mark was 1,200, chalked up the Sunday following the Fourth.

SCRAWNY FRUIT TREE BECOMES WHOLE ORCHARD

STONINGTON, Conn., July 22—(AP)—A single fruit tree, and a scrawny one at that, becomes a veritable orchard when Thomas Glover, a gardener for 30 years, gets his hands on it.

Glover, who has conducted many experiments in grafting and budding, has, for example, taken one tree and caused it to produce 20 different kinds of apples, as well as a quantity of Bartlett pears.

Back in 1925 he began nothing stocks of various other trees on the trunk of a Baldwin apple. Today the tree produces Baldwin, Greenings, Gravensteins, McIntosh, Golden Sweetings, Denison Reddings, Gilly-Flowers, King's Russets and no less than 11 other popular kinds.

The basic principle of grafting, Glover explains, is to keep fruits of a family together. An apple tree does so satisfactorily on an apple tree for a few years, while a peach or a plum is not likely to do well.

In other words, fruits of seed are of one family and should be kept together, while those with stones are of another family and should not be crossed with seed species.

Potatoes and tomatoes are of the same family and Glover has gone nature one better by having a single vine produce "spuds" below and the acid fruit above the ground.

CITY BUILDING AT VAN WERT IS CONDEMNED

(Special To The Lima News) VAN WERT, July 22—An order was issued here Saturday by George A. Strain, director of the division of factory and building inspection, for the vacation of the city building because of the unsafe condition of the walls.

The order was based on an inspection made July 2 by Inspector Wallace Camper, that the east, south and west walls of the building are very badly cracked. The order will be considered Monday night by city council.

Several unsafe orders have been filed during the past six or eight years. Six years ago an order was issued to remove the tower. Instead, however, the weights were removed and the fire bell was taken out of service.

To make the building more substantial, pillars have been erected under the ground flooring of the fire department.

Gay Collegiate Film Being Flashed On Lyric's Screen

"Winter Carnival" Stars Ann Sheridan And Richard Carlson; "The Housekeeper's Daughter" Is Second Hit On Bill

One of the gayest and fastest college romances to reach the screen in several months, "Winter Carnival," now at the Lyric theatre, stars Ann Sheridan and Richard Carlson in the lead roles.

The other half of an outstanding double bill is "The Housekeeper's Daughter," starring Joan Bennett, Adolph Menjou and John Hubbard.

Bette Davis and Charles Boyer are the stars of "All This and Heaven, Too," now at the Ohio theatre, a story of the deceptively quiet little governess who becomes the storm-center of a real-life murder trial that rocked Europe.

Included in the cast are Jeffrey Lynn, Virginia Weidler and Barbara O'Neil. Edith Fellows again heads the brood of "Peppers," who have won their way into the public heart as one of the screen's immortal families, in their latest starring vehicle "Out West With the Peppers," now at the Quilna theatre.

Co-features is "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady," starring Warren William and Jean Muir. The dead End Kids have been removed from the brick and asphalt of the city and transplanted to a California ranch in roles of their newest picture, "You're Not So Tough," now at the Sigma theatre.

The lead feminine role is handled by Nan Grey, with Billy Halop as her leading man in the story of itinerant crop workers of California.

Starring Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward, "My Son, My Son" at the State theatre, tells the strongly dramatic and emotional story of two fathers and two sons, and sports the careers of William and Oliver Essex, respectively. Wallace Beery had the lead roles of the co-feature, "Twenty Mile Team," a story of Death Valley.

OHIO In line with its policy of presenting the finest of the new crop of film entertainment, the Ohio theatre is now offering "All This and Heaven, Too." Bette Davis and Charles Boyer are co-starring in the film.

"All This and Heaven, Too" spurs no efforts in making the brilliant, absorbing novel come to vibrant life on the screen. From the brilliant co-starring team of Miss Davis and Boyer down to the smallest character "bit," the film has been cast with minute care.

Out of Rachel Field's gripping pages comes the immortal story of a young French girl, her background shrouded in mystery, who enters the home of one of France's greatest noblemen, the Duc de Praslin, as governess to his children.

How strangely the destinies of these two, the little governess and the great lord, become interwoven forms the fascinating theme of this great story.

Supporting Miss Davis and Boyer is a huge featured cast which includes such names as Jeffrey Lynn, Barbara O'Neil, Virginia Weidler, Helen Westley, Walter Hampden, Henry Daniell, Harry Davenport, George Colburn, Montagu Love, Janet Beecher, June Lockhart, Ann Todd, Richard Nichols, Fritz Leiber, Ian Keith and many more.

WAPAKONETA, July 22—Extensive improvements and interior decorating were nearing completion today in three local public schools, in preparation for the opening of the 1940-41 school year in September, the city board of education announced.

The improvements are being completed under supervision of John Chapman, industrial art teacher at Blume high school. The improvements include installation of new fixtures and remodeling of rooms for the showing of motion pictures for visual education.

The school board members also announced that portable radios would transplant the use of loud speakers operated from one radio set, located at a central point in each of the three schools. Another new innovation will be separate offices for principals for the two elementary school buildings. In former years the principal's office was located in the room in which the officer taught.

WOMAN SEEKS $1185 FOR FALL AT NIGHT CLUB (Lima News Bureau) FINDLAY, July 22—The usual custom of falling out of a night club was reversed here and as a result Vesta Saloum of Findlay has filed suit in common pleas court against Boyd L. Wagner, proprietor of the W. and S. Brunswey Night club, for $1,185 damages.

The petition says she asks the damages for injuries suffered when she "fell into the beer parlor." The night club is located in a basement room and the plaintiff said she descended the steps in order to ask the driver of a beer truck to move his outfit so she could park her car.

She says she was near the bottom when she fell, because of "darkness and inability to see due to failure of the defendant to maintain sufficient light."

The school budget for the coming year was approved at the meeting of the board of education Monday evening. It calls for $65,230 for general operating expenses and is in line with the cost of operating the schools last year.

COLUMBUS, O., July 21—(UP)—The board of directors of the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce today approved legislation to require compulsory military training.

The junior chamber represents 3,500 young business-men between the ages of 21 and 35 who would be affected by passage of the Butler-Wadsworth bill now pending in the senate. This measure would list all men between the ages of 21 and 65 subject to training of some kind.

The board of directors asked the government to keep citizens apprised of all diplomatic movements affecting the possibilities of American involvement in war and opposed the sending of an armed force outside the Western hemisphere.

National defense taxes received the endorsement of the chamber's officers.
