Golf Pros Cut Scores by Stressing Putting

By HENRY SUPER (United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK —(U.R.)— America's professional golfers are giving par a severe beating this year because they're devoting more time to ters with a triple, a double, and training their putters, Fred Cortwo singles. Winnipeg, now in coran; tournament manager of the "Winning tournaments to-day is all a matter of a spin of the ball," Corcoran quoted Guldahl as saying. "When your putting touch is off, one extra spin of the ball will send it skimming around and out of the cup; one less spin will leave it an inch from the pin. That's why putting is so important, because what good is a 225-yard tee shot if you miss a four foot putt?"

To further illustrate his point, Corcoran said that the race for the title of year's leading money winner this season still is a wide open kee by Gov.
