

Cheap And High-Priced Stories Make Good Films

Fine Comedy Cost Little, Firm Claims

"The Great McGinty" And "Boom Town" Compared By Scribe

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24—The whole town's talking about "The Great McGinty," a robust, punched-up, sure-fire comedy hit about politics in a big city. Loud, tough, sentimental, sad, a mostly funny in agreeable proportions, it is the nearest job of straight-away entertainment that has come from the film factories in a year.

It was made at less than average cost, and in less than average time. "The Great McGinty" has no great names in its cast, and it is the first picture ever directed by Preston Sturges, who also wrote the story. Brian Donlevy, in the top role, had been playing stereotyped heavies for years and had about despaired of ever getting such a part as this. England's Muriel Angelus, who has the feminine lead, was heartbroken at being dismissed by Paramount shortly before the preview the other night. She feels better now. Every studio in town is bidding for her.

The story probably was the cheapest ever purchased. When Sturges, long an associate screen writer, was given a directorship by Paramount, he asked to be allowed to film this original comedy. Executives said no—that they had another story they liked better and could get cheaper. "Not cheaper," said Sturges. "You can have the McGinty story for nothing if I direct it." So the deal was made, with Sturges getting a check for $10 to make it legal.

BOOM PICTURE OP BOOM TOWN

Biggest picture soon to hit the screen is "Boom Town," a West Texas oil yarn. This movie also is well entertainment.

"Boom Town" has been fashioned by routine processes, and it stands for everything in the pretentious Hollywood tradition. It's loaded with stars—Claudette Colbert, Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, and Hedy Lamarr, in that financial order. The sets are realistic, including a town and oil derricks built on Metro's back lot. Without preliminary title or credits, the first few seconds of the picture seemed to promise only a dull commercial shot about the oil industry. Long Beach fans who happened to be present during a surprise showing, straightened in astonishment when a barber yanked a steaming towel from the rugged pan of an oil worker who looked like Spencer Tracy. They yipped with excited comprehension when Clark Gable entered, and a moment later Colbert at the sight of the Misses Colbert and Lamarr.

I have no idea how much money the picture cost, except that $1,500,000 is the smallest figure mentioned. People close to the production say that two million dollars is a conservative estimate. The highly paid director, Jack Conway, indulged by the highly paid producer, Sam Zimbalist, did a perfectionist's job in the profligate fashion which only rich Metro can afford.

It cost so much, and is acknowledged to be such an exceptional feature, that M-G-M now is trying it out in five representative cities with the idea of offering it everywhere at advanced prices.

WHY UNIFORM ADMISSIONS?

"Boom Town" will be well worth the extra tariff. I see no reason why all pictures should be offered at uniform prices any more than a Kaufman-Hart stage hit should be presented at Minsky-Moron admissions. But I do believe there is a business moral to be drawn by Hollywood between the fantastically expensive, star-studded epic and the unconventional, $325,000 "Great McGinty."

The latter will be cherished longer in the memory of the fans, will earn a vastly greater profit, will bring inestimable prestige to worthy players, and will be checked up as a commercial and artistic triumph.

Summertime Favorites To Be Featured On Spitalny Hour

All-Girl Orchestra Will Play Popular Numbers; Jessica Dragonette And James Newill Will Be Heard From Detroit At 8 P. M. Sunday

Summertime favorites will be the theme when Phil Spitalny assembles his attractive all-girl orchestra for the "Hour of Charm" program Sunday evening at 9 o'clock over WLW.

The orchestra will feature "I'll Never Smile Again," "Lalans Knew How," and "Too Romantic," while the all-girl choir with Maxine and the Three Little Words sing "Trade Winds."

Evelyn and her violin will hold the spotlight with "The Breeze and I," and the "Three Little Words will follow with their own arrangement of "The Gaudich's Serenade."

The solo spot for Vivian and her lovely voice will be "In the Gloaming" during which the orchestra's newest feature will have the accompaniment of the string choir. Violins and voices blend for the hymn of the evening, "Somebody."

The orchestra under Leith Stevens will vie for major attention with Jessica Dragonette and James Newill, singing stars, on the Summer Hour broadcast Sunday, heard from 8 to 9 over WJR.

Besides treating such popular tunes as "The Breeze and I" and "The Dawn Is From You" to symphonious performance, Stevens will present a Hollywood medley of movie musical hits, among them "Flying Down to Rio," "Over the Rainbow," and "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

Stevens will call upon the orchestra for its best in a performance of "My Songs," a tune written by Leith himself. The orchestra will also present new and old versions of "Lazy Mary."

Newill is to sing two long-popular melodies—"Softly as in the Morning Sun," and the vigorous "Largo El Factotum." Miss Dragonette will be heard in "Love is the Sun," from "Three Musketeers," and "Frisch Love Song." The two will also take part in songs featuring "South Sea Cruise," a words-and-music version of a tourists' bureau.

John Gunther will pinch-hit as the last of a series of guest speakers.
