Baby Dumpling Expected To Create Furore On Program

Capture Of A "Howler Monkey" Will Calm Neighborhood And Save Bumstead Family From Financial Ruin

Like all kids, Baby Dumpling is crazy about frogs, turtles, and other fauna. He acquires various pets, on the Blondie program, Monday, 6:30 p. m. over WJR, and is having a heck of a good time when the neighborhood is thrown into turmoil by weird cries. It eventually develops that Baby has captured a Howler Monkey, or some such beasty, which in the pay-off turns out to be very valuable and baby collects the reward, saving the!

Broderick Crawford, one of the most colorful personalities on the screen, has been described as a Barrymore, Mack Sennett and other people whose rugged individualattention to Hollywood.

The husky young character actor is currently playing the most important role of his career as one of the famous Dalton boys in Univarsal's new frontier action èpic, "When the Daltons Rode," at the Sigma theatre, with Randolph Scott and Kay Francis heading a stellar cast.

Crawford comes from a theatrical dynasty. His mother is Helen Broderick, popular comedienne, and his father, Lester Crawford, is a once-famous stage star. Young Broderick has seen life from such varied vantages as Harvard and the fo'c'sle of a tramp steamer. A combination of circumstances tossed him into the memorable role of "Lennie" in the brilliant stage production, "Of Mice and Men."

The play did a solid season on Broadway, and Crawford was brought to Hollywood in triumph, He has won plaudits for action roles in "The Real Glory" and other films and scored as a comedian in "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby." Now he is said to reach new heights as the leader of the celebrated Dalton boys, with Brian Dorlevy, Stuart Erwin and Frank Albertson as his screen brothers in outlawry.
