

Humphrey Bogart Found As Star in "High Sierra"

Player Sees Stooging Job Coming Back

Will Welcome A Return To Supporting Roles With Popular "Thugs"

By PAUL HARRISON
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14—Humphrey Bogart is a star now—the top name in "High Sierra," and in a role originally intended for Mister Paul Muni. This is gratifying, but not especially impressive to the perennial gangster. He says, "You'd better look now if you want to see me heading a cast. Next picture, I'll probably be stooging for Cagney or Robinson. The studio isn't making any promises."

On the other hand, there are many who predict and hope that the able Bogart will stay right up there as the new head man of Warners' cops-and-robbers pictures. Jimmy Cagney is trying to pull out of them; Edward Robinson is expected to be busy with most of the weighty drama which Muni would have played if he hadn't been fired for being so finicky; and George Raft, already under suspension for refusing a role, will not get many more chances to exasperate his businesslike bosses.

Whether or not he remains a star, Bogart isn't yearning especially for cinematic reform. He has found that crime does pay, and he has no plans for muscling in on the rackets of the comedians or the matinee idols. No matter that he used to play comedy on the Broadway stage; he'll always be grateful to Stage Producer Arthur Hopkins for popping him into the role of the ruthless Duke Mantee in "Petrified Forest."

"But for that," said the actor, "I'd probably still be hanging around New York." The killer characterization introduced him to the screen when the play was filmed, and he'd be glad to have as good a part any day.

"LIKE ONE LONG PICTURE"

What he mostly wants, you see, is a chance to do some acting. Listen:

"About all I've ever objected to around here was boredom. I kind of hated to take the money when I didn't have to concentrate to play a scene, and when I could spend every other day playing golf."

"Until 'They Drive by Night' came along, I had about five pictures in a row where I could have read you off most of the dialog before I even saw a script. I could tell by the names in the cast what kind of story it was. Sometimes they'd make an oldie, or maybe rehash two or three old ones into a new one. But to me it all seemed like one long picture, with a few different faces coming in now and then."

I asked about "High Sierra," which really is a gangster film even if it does sound like a western. It is garnished with sagebrush because the leader and his hoodlums decide to clean out an isolated, millionaire-infested resort hotel in the desert.

As the last living alumnus of the Dillinger mob, Bogart is sprung from a penitentiary and forced to engineer this piece of banditry. He likes the role because there are conflicting sides to the character; sometimes he's a business-like killer and again he's an ex-farm boy with pastoral instincts and a kindly attitude toward animals and Ida Lupino. He finally gets killed, of course, the Hays office being implacable in such matters. His dog betrays him by going to his hiding place on a mountainside.

BOGART'S LOOT: HALF A MILLION

"There's only one nice person in the whole story, and that's Henry Travers," Bogart says. "Even the dog is a jinx. My part is sympathetic only in showing how circumstances force the guy back into his old business and finally drive him to the mountain and his death. Come to think of it, this is an enlargement on the 'Petrified Forest' theme, only with a mountain providing the symbolism."

"Well, I'm making some progress, anyway: I get a half million dollars worth of loot in this picture, and that's the biggest job I ever pulled. I guess it's even a bigger haul than Cagney or Robinson ever made."

NIGHT LIFE FOOTNOTES

DE VEEB RESTAURANT

Fred Oakes heads the concoction department at this spot. Dancing gives out Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Revelry of a general nature is extant at other times.

HELEN NITE CLUB

An alcholic possessing a certain quaint charm. Glen Cooper's dance band and the ever-blooming Del Rio saddle-bruises make it possible to swish a skirt if you are so disposed. Also tables for guests.

MILANO CAFE

As per usual, the Milano maestros lead the field by dishing out the newest drinks. Their latest assault upon equilibrium is a deorum amulet called "Ball, Ball." A buster.

JUDY'S CAFE

A tidy tavern featuring the drum-majoring tactics of Bill (Wholly's Elmer?) Judy. Incidentally they've got a new juke box that's remotely controllable from the various booths. True, by a mechanical masterpiece. Plays music, flashes vari-colored lights and even helps you thru the swinging doors.

LOUIE'S NITE CLUB

Put-ups with a flourish as executed by Ray. A very dextrous individual with a lavish touch. Likewise dancing is permitted, if not downright encouraged.

COURT CAFE

A purveyor of the finest potatoes is fresh and maitre de this N. Main-st. establishment. We've sunk the bridge work in many a sitting posture indoors. Food's fine. Ditto beverages.

GLENDALE GARDENS

A few hardy souls insist they be served outdoors — and the scenic situation is remarkable but personally we'll take our hot but red rum from a sitting posture indoors. Food's fine. Ditto beverages.

DICK'S PLACE

Robust roistering is the keynote here. Rarely does one overcome patrons of this fun spot. This big noise is an old timer in the game who can tell some mighty elevated and elevating stories.

IRISH HILL

Just a good brassie shot and a short pitch from the heart of St. Johns. Conducted by a genial gentleman from the auto sed. Fine sprouts and good vittals are proffered.

OHIO BAR

While dallying in the stamewar department here we ran into (full face, fortunately) a new dish — "chicken modack," a preparation dreamed up Jim and Glenn. Very tasty and filling.

LOST CREEK

Probably will have returned to normalcy after the dia and divot digging of the gentry of the press on picnic has subsided Sunday. Russ, the man about the kitchen, is mighty proud of his cooking propensities. And deservedly so.

ROXY GRILL

The man who here seems to be the good, old-fashioned stand up and pour 'em down system. Of course, it is possible to get food also under the able direction of the Peseok boys. Wasp-waist Steemie is in charge of the bottled goods sector.

CASTLE FARM

Home never like this, say all the customers. They should know for many seem to desert the former for the latter. Paul Gray directs the destinies of the farm in a masterly fashion.

RAER RAINBOW ROOM

Headquarters for the hot record society. That business of having the best bands in country is no idle slack talk. Ortha really puts on the warm wax and does that high-speed p. a. system position up.

ALPINE VILLAGE

It's worth an evening of elbow bending at this establishment just to see the dancing. Some of the rarest steps in the book are shucked off by the local carpet-cutters. In other words, for solid sent stuff, this is it.

STONE'S GRILL

At all hours the gang is here. Never worry about that lonely feeling for it can be cured at Stone's. Probably some of the biggest shots can be seen and had at the bar here.

WALDO

Whether you like it hot or cold, upstairs or down, mighty fine stuff can be had here. Merriment doubtless waxes hottest in the rathskeller while the more serious talked-up tipping goes on in the grill area.

DIXIE NITE CLUB

Like the floating on the cake we always like to save some of the best for the last.

EAGLES FAVOR DEFENSE PLAN

Dues Cancelled For Members Who Enlist Or Are Conscripted

Lima aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Saturday received word from Conrad H. Mann, Kansas City, chief auditor of the lodge, that the order had declared for complete and national defense, including the principle of peace-time conscription, providing such conscription is deemed necessary by congress and the President.

The lodge, which includes more than 650,000 members located in better than 1,200 industrial and commercial centers in the United States, Canada, and the territorial possessions, will provide that every member of the order who is conscripted or who joins any branch of the armed forces of the United States, will be carried as a beneficial member on the roster of the subordinate unit to which he belonged at the time of conscription or enlistment without having to pay the usual monthly dues.

The minimum dues of the order are one dollar a month and all members in good standing are entitled to certain sick and funeral benefits and in many cases to free medical service.

During the World War of 1917-18, the order established a "patriotic fund" of better than a million and a quarter dollars. The nearest dependent relative of every member in the country's armed forces was paid gratuity of every $1,000 provided the member was killed in action or died of wounds or illness incurred as a result of his war-time services.

The resolution adopted by the grand aerie of the order at its annual convention held in Chicago and released Saturday for publication, insisted that the United States be made so strong that "no power or powers on earth would even consider the invasion of the Western hemisphere." It emphasized that the building of war machines was not enough; that the country's armed forces must be augmented to such a degree that experienced operators of such war machines would be available immediately in any emergency.

The stray animal bore no identification marks, and its owner thus far has failed to "show," Kelly said.
