

Alice Faye, Edward Arnold Guests On Radio Theatre

Stars To Appear In Dramatization Of "Lillian Russell;" Margaret Speaks Soloist Of Wallenstein Concert Program Over WEAF

The glamor era of Broadway at the turn of the century will be brought to life again in the Radio Theatre when Alice Faye stars in "Lillian Russell" on Monday. Miss Faye will be joined by Edward Arnold when the full-hour dramatic program is presented over WABC at 9 p. m.

Based on the life story of the world-famous ballad singer, "Lillian Russell" was a successful movie last spring. In the radio version, Alice Faye again takes the title role with Edward Arnold portraying the fabulous Diamond Jim Brady.

"M. Chiamano Mimi," musical autobiography of the heroine of Puccini's "La Boheme," will be sung by Margaret Speaks, beloved American soprano during her concert Monday over WEAF. Miss Speaks also will sing "I'm the Echo" by Kern, "Just a Weary in For You" by Bond, and "Lover" by Rodgers.

Contended program will salute the petroleum industry on Monday at 10 p. m., over WEAF.

Under the direction of Percy Faith, the orchestra will present "Night and Day," "Cocktails for Two" and the chorus will be featured in "Great Day," "Star Dust," and "Sing You Sinners."

Lullaby Lady Louise King will sing "Sweet and Low" and Tenor Larry Taylor will present "Only Forever."

STALIN'S KAMPF; Joseph Stalin's Credo, written by himself. Edited by M. R. Werner, Howell, Soskin and Company $2.50.

Up to now there has been nothing to explain the aims, political philosophy and tactics of Stalin, nothing but scattered statements, tedious reports, and colored "interpretations."

But now we have a book in which he speaks for himself. Here is the blueprint of Communist ambitions all over the world. Here also are his aims in relation to American labor and his ideas of the means of achieving world revolution. He is best revealed in an anecdote where he is supposed to have said, "To choose one's victim, to prepare one's plans minutely, to stake an implacable vengeance, and then go to bed."

NEMESIS: THE STORY OF OTTO STRASSER AND THE BLACK FRONT. By Douglas Reed. Houghton, Mifflin Co. $2.50.

Strasser was the only man in Germany with an anti-Nazi organization. The Gestapo spent endless time and money in trying to destroy him, and it was only a short time ago that they finally were able to capture him. There never has been a pursuit of a man so hair-raising. In Vienna the Gestapo missed him by an inch, in Prague he was the mark for every German agent, but still his propaganda was seeping into Germany. His life makes one of the most extraordinary tales of adventure of our times.

BIG RIVER TO CROSS. By Ben Lucien Burman. John Day Co., Inc. $3.00.

Burman, who has written other books about the Mississippi, has now written the best of them all. "Big River to Cross" is an unusually good book for reading aloud, in fact it is a book which really needs an appreciative listener. Burman is familiar with the great variety of Mississippi boats (show boats, packet boats, shanty boats, barges and steam boats) as well as with the great variety of human beings who make their living on these waters, and from these people he extracts an intriguing story.

MADAME DOROTHEA. By Sigrid Undset. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. $2.50.

Norway in the 18th century is the setting for Mrs. Undset's latest novel. Madame Dorothea is a happy wife and mother when her husband disappears in a winter storm. Her readjustment to life and its conditions make the story, a story which Mrs. Undset can portray so well. The book lacks the colorful pageantry of her novels of medieval times but there is a feeling of authenticity in her portrayal of life in Norway 200 years ago.

LIBRARY "TAG DAY" SCHEDULED AT KENTON

(Lima News Bureau) KENTON, Oct. 21—Library "tag day" for the benefit of the Kenton Public Library will be held in Kenton on Saturday, Oct. 28, under the auspices of the Kenton Federation of Women's Clubs. It has been announced, Mrs. William Crooks has been named general chairman in charge. Other members of the committee include Mrs. LeRoy Raber and Mrs. Ernest Otto.

Members of the Little Ladies' club will sell the tags in the Kenton business section all day next Saturday. The tags have been designed of different colors so that they may be used as book marks.

Mrs. W. E. Brosche has been elected by the Federation as delegate of the local group who will attend the northwestern Ohio convention of Federated Women's clubs at Toledo on Oct. 22. Mrs. W. B. Bryan is president of the Kenton organization.

Withers' Latest Film On Lyric's Twin Bill Program

Outdoor Picture Holds Interest On Ohio Screen; Music Extravaganza Is Current At Quilna

With Jane Withers as a bowery spiffers on her own in ritzy Park Avenue, "Girl From Avenue A," Jane's latest starring film, scheduled to open Tuesday at the Lyric with "Charlie Chan in Panama," new thriller of the Oriental sleuth. Showing for the final times Monday are "Bad Man From Red Butte" and "Paroled From the Big House."

Against the colorful and adventure-filled background of the old West, in the days when justice was administered at the point of a gun and roistering Judge Roy Bean was the "Law West of the Pecos," the film, "The Westerner," with Gary Cooper in the title role is now showing at the Ohio theatre. Walter Brennan is cast as the judge while Doris Davenport provides the romantic interest.

Boasting eight torrid songs, a 6,000 mile whirlwind romance, a sensational new star, as well as two of the biggest names in the movies, the musical "Down Argentine Way," is now at the Quilna. Don Ameche and Betty Grable are paired in this picture, while the sultry Carmen Miranda makes her screen debut singing songs that made her famous.

Presenting a more grown-up Deanna Durbin, the star's eighth picture, "Spring Parade," is now showing at the Sigma theatre. In the story Deanna is cast as a young peasant girl who goes to the city of her dreams and meets adventure and romance. Robert Cummings is cast in the male romantic lead, with Misha Auer providing the comedy.

William Powell and Myrna Loy are the stars of the State film, "I Love You Again," the delightful comedy of an extravagant, tricky gangster, who emerges from a period of amnesia to find that he has been an astute, dignified business man, who is about to be divorced from a very lovely girl. The co-feature is "Murder in the Air."

Showing for the last times Monday at the Majestic is "Cilling on the President" and "20 Mule Team."

OHIO

Of all the lurid characters produced by the Old West, few equalled and none surpassed Judge Roy Bean—the "Law West of the Pecos"—for sheer improbability. And of all the fantastic aspects of his career and character, the strangest was surely his long-distance, one-sided romance with Lily Langtry, whom he never met and never even saw.

When Bean conceived his passion for Mrs. Langtry—a picture of her in the London Illustrated News was responsible—he came at once her devoted admirer and indefatigable publicist. He was the Law West of the Pecos and then his efforts she became the patron saint of the gentry west of the Pecos, whether they like it or not.

The good judge was in the habit of fuming heavily, or in extreme cases shooting, those who did not agree with his evaluation of the Langtry face and form. And over his emporium, the walls of which were completely covered with pictures of Lily Langtry, was this sign:

Justice of the Peace
Whiskey, Wine and Beer
(The extra "i" in "Lily" was the fault of a drunken sign painter.)

Judge Bean seems to have possessed a remarkable personality in spite of his unprepossessing appearance. He was a powerfully stocky man of middle height. He had a white beard and wore extremely sloppy clothes. He carried his head slightly on one side due to an injury received in his youth when he killed a Spanish officer over a woman.

His antecedents and birthplace are unknown, although it is probable that he came from Kentucky. From the age of sixteen on he wandered around the southwest, working in saloons, gambling, prospecting and, at all times, exercising his gift for getting into trouble.

He had married, had four children, been divorced and was well into middle age when he turned up at the town of Eagle Rock alongside the Pecos river. It was expected that the final join-up of the Southern Pacific would occur there, and Bean arrived with a wagon-load of whisky and earned goods to reap a few profits from the Chinese and Irish labor gangs. He promptly named himself Justice of the Peace and renamed the town Vinegaroon after the outsize scorpions that abounded there. He headquartered in a tent with a crude bar for liquor at one end and a bar for crude justice at the other.

HERREN TAKES POST AS KENTON LEGION LEADER

KENTON, Oct. 21—Phil Herren, Kenton businessman, was installed as commander of the local American Legion post at the regular meeting of the organization at Veterans' hall in the courthouse here. He succeeds Herman J. Neu who has served as commander during the last year. Lloyd B. Kelly of Kenton, commander of the Second district of the Legion, was installing officer.

Numerous other activities took the attention of the Legionnaires at the meeting including the making of arrangements for both the annual Halloween celebration and the Armistice observance.

W. A. Burlingame, administrator of claims at the Veterans' hospital in Dayton, will be the Armistice day speaker, the committee in charge announced. The program will be presented in the National Guard armory here. The committee in charge includes Lester Schlingler, chairman, Grover Chamberlain, Ernest Baker, Fred Rich, D. M. Anstine, William Mack and Lloyd B. Kelly.

The committee in charge of the Halloween celebration consists of Fire Chief A. T. Colomber, chairman, D. M. Anstine, Ernest Baker, Floyd Stewart and Phil Herren. The group will hold a meeting this week at the Municipal building to lay plans for the event.

Other officers installed at the meeting included Ernest Baker, first vice commander; Frank J. Pohlman, second vice commander; Cyril Houser, adjutant; D. M. Anstine, treasurer; Earl Frater, historian; Harry Bloom, chaplain; Ed Wren, sergeant-at-arms, and Harry James, color bearer.

Plans also were made for the fish fry which will be staged Monday night in the basement of the courthouse by local veterans' groups in honor of Company E, 148th Infantry, which leaves soon for a year's training in Mississippi. The committee representing the Legion is Harvey Ferner, Bob Nichols and Owen Hogan.

MAN LOSES PART OF RIGHT HAND IN GUN MISHAP

(Lima News Bureau) WAPAKONETA, Oct. 21—Herbert Wendell, 26, today was in Lima St. Rita's hospital recovering from a bullet wound in the right hand sustained Sunday afternoon when a shotgun he was handling was accidentally discharged at the Egon Bird farm, Botkins, Route 1, where he was employed as a farm hand.

Wendell was shooting pigeons in the barn of his employer, in company of several other young men, when the accident occurred. He was standing on a ladder when the gun discharged.

The victim was taken to a Wapakoneta physician's office by Gerald Binkley, a companion, who in turn brought him to St. Rita's hospital. The physician reported the mishap to Sheriff William Nietzer.

The hospital reported Wendell's condition as satisfactory.
