

"We, The People" To Return After Political Interruption

Lowell Thomas Will Headline Program With Experiences In Arabia; Hollywood Cameraman To Be Heard

"We, The People," after a two-week absence from the air because of the political campaign, will return with Gabriel Heatter and his special guests Tuesday over WABC from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m.

Lowell Thomas, news commentator, author and explorer, will headline the program to tell of his experiences with the late Lawrence of Arabia. Vernon Dahart will explain how he wrote "The Prisoner's Song" as a joke—and made a fortune. W. K. Moore will relate the manner in which he and Sam Smith were rejected co-majors of Sandy Springs, South Carolina.

Teddy Tetzlaff, a man who has to figure all the angles as one of Paramount's cameramen, has been given a free hand to say what he wants about the difficulties of photographing the Zoo. Hope when the Persodent program goes on WEAF on Tuesday, at 10:00 p. m.

A group of novelty tunes will be featured on the Horace Heidt Treasure Chest program over WEAF at 8:30 p. m., with Ronnie Kemper as soloist.

Sigma Offers Film Drama About Nation's Highways

Stage Show Featuring Tim Mix And His Girls Opens Tuesday At Lyric; Top-Rate Hits At Other Theatres

A grim scheme to ruin a big transcontinental bus line forms the basis of "Wildcat Bus," an exciting drama of the nation's highways, which opens Wednesday at the Sigma theatre with Fay Wray and Charles Lang. "Duley," a delicious comedy with Ann Southern, Roland Young and Billie Burke, completes the new program. "Rangers of Fortune," thrilling story of the west, ends Tuesday.

The Lyric's stage show featuring Tim Mix and his Dude Ranch girls and the two motion picture hits offer patrons a stampede of laughs and thrills. Lynn Bari and Lloyd Nolan have leading roles in "Pier 13," an action packed picture, while George Murphy, Brenda Joyce and Ralph Bellamy are a few of the notables in "Public Deb. No. 1."

Life in a concentration camp and the escape of a woman from one is shown in "Escape," current Ohio theatre attraction which features Robert Taylor and lovely Norma Shearer. Taylor portrays a young American artist and Miss Shearer is cast as an American-born countess. This picture is based on the world famous novel written by Elhel Vance.

Tuesday and Wednesday will be the final days for the showing of "The Sea Hawk" at the State theatre. In this production Errol Flynn portrays a galleon sailor who becomes the daring chieftain of the most dangerous band of men ever to fight under the flag of the "skull and cross-bones."

Continuing to thrill Quilna patrons is Tyrone Power in "The Mark of Zorro." Power is perfect in the famous role of the masked adventurer whose jagged sword mark strikes terror to the hearts of all except lovely Linda Darnell. Others in the cast are Eugene Pallette, Basil Rathbone and J. Edward Bromberg.

QUILNA

Lovely Linda Darnell was cast recently for the leading featured role of a Spanish señorita in "The Mark of Zorro," the film which stars Tyrone Power at the Quilna theatre. The script called for Linda to sing at a fiesta. The intention had been to "dub in" another voice for these sequences.

But Director Rouben Mamoulian happened to overheard her singing for her own amusement and was amazed by the beauty and quality of her voice. He rushed her over to the recording laboratories for a voice test. The result was that she did her own singing in "The Mark of Zorro," and a "sneak" preview at a California theatre confirmed Mamoulian's fondest hopes.

The possibility of eventually placing her in a musical role has been under consideration by the studio. In the meantime she will study under Enrico Riccio in order to cultivate her fine soprano voice.

"The Mark of Zorro" has a powerful featured cast headed by Linda and Basil Rathbone and also including Gale Sondergaard, Eugene Pallette, J. Edward Bromberg and many others.

OHIO

The new romantic team of Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor, surrounded by an outstanding cast of supporting names as has been assembled for any film, brings Ethel Vance's best-seller, "Escape," to the Ohio screen with electrifying force.

Here is a story that combines almost unbearable suspense with soul-searching characterizations that should live in film history. Miss Shearer reaches new heights as the Countess von Treck holding desperately to illusions that she knows are false. Robert Taylor emerges as a convincing performer as the young American artist, Mark Preysing, desperately seeking to rescue his mother, ex-actress Emmy Ritter, from execution in a concentration camp. In this escape the Countess finds herself involved and at the same time finds a new strength of purpose.

Albert and Elsa Bussermann as the crushed and fearful Henning and his wife; Edgar Barrier as the sadistic Police Commissioner; Bonita Granville as the schoolgirl, Ursula, and Blanche Yurka as the brutal hospital nurse who brilliantly eluded performances.

No picture of recent memory has so kept audiences on the edges of their seats. Here is all the excitement, all the probing depth, all the literate quality of the novel, made vivid by masterful portrayals and convincing backgrounds.

JOLIET

JOLIET, Nov. 12 — Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Mt. Zion Baptist church were entertained with a covered dish dinner in the home of Mrs. Chloé Alford of Lima Thursday.

The favorite blonde comedienne of the screen, Ann Sothern, is scheduled to create a furor as a new character when "Duley" opens at the Sigma theatre Wednesday. As the erratic Duley, Miss Sothern portrays the role of a young woman whose heart of gold is somewhat offset by a capacity for attempting to direct the lives of both her family and her friends. The situations to which she steers them are packed with laughs. In direct contrast to her role of "Maisie," this new production gives Miss Sothern the advantage of smart Adrian-designed wardrobe and a series of ultra-chic coiffures. The dialogue is replete with wisecracks and the action with comic situations. Supporting the star in the role of leading man is Ian Hunter, seen as a young inventor who whips up an airplane motor capable of running on kerosene.

Others in the excellent supporting cast are Roland Young, Reginald Gardiner, Billie Burke, Lynne Carver and Dan Dailey, Jr.

An expose of the methods so-called wildcat organizations use in competing with the licensed bus lines of the country forms the basis of "Wildcat Bus," with Fay Wray, Charles Lang and Paul Guilfoyle heading the cast. The story deals with the rivalry between wildcaters and an honest bus company, and introduces a romance between a happy-go-lucky playboy who is a wildcat driver and the daughter of the bus line owner.

Crammed with exciting action and suspense, the picture throws plenty of light on a hitherto little-known and startling racket. In Cuba's population is 60 per cent white and 40 per cent Negro.
