"In this world full of troubles we must be thankful that we are not in this war. There is much shooting that seems like thunder, and it is cracking around Switzer-land and at Basel every once in a while. The people become afraid, but we haven't had to run for the cellars yet, although people here have to do other things that they don't like to do.

big whistle blew and every-one ran for shelter into a cellar where we stayed for half an hour. Not one person remained on the street except the soldiers, and it was just as if the world was dyi- outside. It would be some fun for you to run so fast, as it all goes like lightning, all street cars and autos had to stop and the people had to run-an interesting sight to watch. Later we learned that this alarm was for 'practice' and then we all had to laugh about it.

houses and fields of Genf, near here, and the Swiss fliers had to to show them the way out. You know how it is. Some of them makes it very sad.

State to Ask Law to End Deer Snaring

The state conservation depart-ment, aroused by reports of deer snaring in northern Wisconsin, will support legislation in the 1941 session to make deer snaring a felony. H. W. MacKenzie, conservation department director, in a letter to George Yale, Superior, director of the Douglas County Game Protective league, urged that legislators be contacted to arouse interest in a law to make deer snaring a fel-

MacKenzie said he thought the vicious practice of deer snaring was a thing of the past.

"It seems as long as men exist, every once in a while wolves of human shape will be born among them and about the only way of handling such creatures is to find some way of knocking them down and dragging them out," MacKen-
