Greenberg and York drove in a total of 284 runs, more than any other two players in the league. Greenberg led with 150 RBI, and York was second with 134. Greenberg walked 93 times, struck out 75 times and grounded into only 15 infield double plays. York drew 89 passes, fanned 88 times and hit int conly 12 infield double plays. Although the Tigers finished ourth in pitching and sixth in fielding, Greenberg and York supplied the power which catapulted Detroit to the championship. The shift of Greenberg from first base to the outfield, enabling the Tigers to play York at the initial sack, thus turned out to be the decisive move of the pennant campaign.
