THE WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL Good Listening

By NANCY ROE (Member of Radio Committee Branch, American Association of University Women) I suppose there are few if any persons, specially among parents and teachers, who have not at times reflected upon that awe-commanding process which we call "growth". There is something sublime about the growth of body, mind, and soul, and no physiological or psychological explanation has succeeded in erasing our wonderment before its subtle persistence and its potential power. Inherent forces

AAUW in the child seem forever to be at work in their multiplication of skills, and the challenge to every teacher must be to keep apace. Nor does the challenge end with elementary expansion. It extends far beyond into the more subtle realms of growth where taste and discernment and appreciation are molded into being. The liner the faculty, the more apt it is to lie secreted. It is indeed toward the development of this inner man that education finally looks for the consumation of its efforts. ion of its efforts.

Where, to be specific, do we FBI Seizes need more urgently the helping hand of education than in developing our taste for the fine arts, and particularly for music? Few, of us are born with a well-developed appreciation for good music. Unless that deeply hidden sensitivity be given exercise and stimulation, it will surely remain dormant, or at best, un-To sensitivity must refined. be added familiarity, and familiarity depends upon ex-posure. One may not be accused of begging the question if one links taste for the fine arts with other truly noble experience of life.-such experiences as inspiration, love, and religion. To some of us, the skill of a great artist is proof enough of the divinity of man. We may therefore appropriate a few significant lines from the seventeenth century theologian and fit them to our thesis: "Let us endeavor to acquaint ourselves with our own lives and the true rules of life; let us inform our minds as much as may be with the excellence ligion, that, beholding it in its method whereby musical taste will grow. We owe thanks to radio programs which bring We need as many degrees of refinement as there are stages

For the beginner, that little "Music for the School and Home," presented by WIBA at 7:30 each morning, is a fine starting point. This period, planned in co-operation with the Madison public schools, has its stated purpose of "discovering" music for the child, who, given such a start, will surely ask for more. "The Viennese Ensemble", also presented by WIBA, finds a merited place in our musical exercise. Here perhaps is not immortal music, but it is lovely familiar music-strains which linger in the mind with tantalizing pleasure. Of radio programs such as these, which discover for us our splendid heritage of music and familiarize us with it, we too

German Alien

MILWAUKEE -(U.P)- Papers understood to have been seized by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in the Thursday arrest of Eugene J. Buerk, 40-year-old German alien, reputedly were among documents examined Saturday by the U. S. district attorney's staff here for presentation to a grand jury convening Jan. 14.

Lee V. Boardman, head of the FBI office here, made the arrest with three other agents instead of the customary procedure of leting deputy United States marshals handle such matters, according to information learned Seturday.
