PARTY LOST WAY ON TRIP THROUGH DESERT
The automobile was loaded with food and water, and several extra cans of gasoline. The route was charted within easy range of the coast of the Mediterranean sea.
Desert travelers think of water more than they think of food. The trip from Tripoli to Egypt was planned so there could be stops at oases and wells along the way.
One stopping place was a small well known as Bir Meduma. Though travelers used the well, there was no settlement, not even a single house, beside it.
Leading out from Bir Meduma, they saw tracks which looked like the imprint of car wheels. They thought these must lead to the fort which was to be the next point where they could obtain food and water.
Time after time, the car tires were punctured. The holes were mended until at last there was no patching tape left.
The car was left in the desert, and the three walked back to the Bir Meduma well. Tarbox, who felt very ill, stayed there while Holmboe and the Arab boy headed toward the sea coast. Near the coast they found a well with water which was somewhat salty, but which could locate no village.
Some empty bottles were lying about, and they filled four of them with water. Thus refreshed, they kept looking about until they found a trail which led to a fort. After reaching the fort, they asked that help be sent to Tarbox, and all three were made as comfortable as possible.
Many other adventures were written in the "Desert Encounter." (For Travel section of your scrapbook.)
If you wish a copy of the leaflet "Flying Machine Pioneers," just send a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Address to me in care of this newspaper.

The trailers, which will be a small two-wheel type, will be constructed at a corporation plant in Racine, Wis., officials said.
