They also are the days of death and destruction on the highways, for traffic deaths increase 35 to 40 per cent in the northern states in winter, according to the National Safety council.

One reason for the increase is that pedestrian travel is heavier at this time of year. There are more shoppers in the downtown areas, exchanging Christmas gifts or taking advantage of year-end and pre-inventory sales.

0 0 0 Likewise, many car owners have put their machines up for the winter, or are more inclined to leave them in the garage than in warmer

Road conditions are an important factor also. Chains, for instance, are a center of controversy. To use them or not to use them, that is the question.

Estimates vary widely as to the number of drivers who use chains. One safety official placed the number as high as 75 per cent. A random, informal poll of a group of car drivers brought estimates down to as low as "one half of 1 per cent" and no higher than 5 per cent. Low as those numbers may be, most authorities agree as to the importance and necessity for chains in winter driving.

"Chains are a nuisance to put on, but they are most essential for snow or mud and on steep hills during the wet season, and they should be carried in every car," Ernest N. Smith, author of the eyeopening article, "-And Sudden Death," emphasized recently. In 1939, 70 out of 37,000 fatal accidents were caused by lack of chains; 2,560 out of 1,277,300 non-fatal accidents were caused by lack of chains. The cost of chains-wheth-

accident, remember that it is not enough just to report it to the local police officials, R. C. Salisbury, director of motor vehicle department, pointed out.

Accidents must also be reported to his department within 48 hours, or there is an automatic $10 fine for failure to do so. It's the law.

"The driver of a vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury or death of any person or a total property damage to an apparent extent of $50 or more shall report such accident to the local traffic enforcement officials and, within 48 hours, forward a written report to the safety department of the Wisconsin motor vehicle division, Madison."

Salisbury's office uses various methods in its educational campaign about reporting ac-

"Newspaper stories and radio are valuable in the cam-paign," he said.

"And this year we are trying something new. We are including information about this part of the law with all 1941 automobile license plates, just as we have been printing the law on the official state maps issued by the department," Salisbury pointed out. That "$50 or more" total, incidentally, includes damage to the other car or fences or telephone poles or whatever else is hit, included with the damage to your own car, the safety division said.

"Our campaign for better reporting of accidents is show-ing excellent results," Salis-bury noted. "We expect to have 90 per cent reporting by the end of 1941, although we realize, of course, that we never can have a perfect record because it just isn't human nature.'

Here are half a dozen suggestions for better winter

ONE. Check brakes for simultaneous grip (unequalized brakes cause skids; TWO. Chains are necessary when driving on packed snow

THREE. Use efficient wipers and defrosters: FOUR. Travel at reduced speed, and approach curves

FIVE. Slow down in gear

open to force out carbon monoxied gas (particularly in the older cars).

Soose and Mauriello Fight Friday Night

By JACK CUDDY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Billy Soose, the classy ex-collegiate clouter college. He won the inter-collegiate who is called "uncrowned king of title in 1937. As a professional, holds in store when he tangles rams registered his second decision with hard-punching young Tami over Billy. Mauriello at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Slender, dark-haired Soose puts climbs into a New York ring for the first time.

A defeat by young Mauriello will blast Billy's campaign for a shot at the middleweight title and probably ruin him as a potential metropolitan drawing card. New York fans have read so much about the former Penn State scrapper that Soose will have to be brilliant to live up to expectations.

Billy won a flock of press clippings during the summer by virtue of his upset non-title decisions over both claimants of the 160-pound crown-Ken Overlin, New York's champion, and Tony Zale, who is recognized by the National Boxing assn.

Riding this reputation into the big town, the pride of Farrell, Pa., is taking a major risk in tackling Mauriello of the Bronx for these

Soose is a slow starter and some-what fragile against stiff punch-

Although he never has been knocked out in his 32 professional engagements, several opponents have had Billy on the floor. Young Mauriello is a knockout puncher and a fast starter who sets a furi-ous pace from the opening gong. If he can tag the Pennsylvanian in an early round, he may put him away. Torpedo Tami, cockily confident after 24 straight professional victories—including 14 knockouts-will shoot the works in the early going. Some Soose critics charge that the former intercollegiate champion accepted the Mauriello match he figures that the comparatively inexperienced Bronx Italian is a soft touch, They point out that Tami served as a sparring partner for Soose last summer when Billy was training for his bout with Overlin at Scranton, Pa.

Soose is the 2-1 betting favorite, so maybe the critics are right. But many New York experts doubt it. Mauriello says, "Sure I sparred with Soose at Scranton, but I was training for one of my own fights, and it was good experience. Besides, that's one of the main rea-sons I wanted this match. I know what Soose has got, and particularly what he ain't got.'

Billy is a more brilliant boxer than Tami, but he can't match the youngster's kick. Although Soose has had but 32 pro bouts in his three-year career, he is far more experienced than that record
