

Palm Springs Is Haven For Fatigued Film Stars

Scribe Finds Weary Actors Dime A Dozen

Players Pay $30 A Day To Gaze At Desert, Absorb Sun And Air

By FREDERICK C. OTTMAN
(UP Hollywood Correspondent)

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF., Feb. 15 (UP)—Whenever a movie actor gets the sniffles, or sore at the boss, or figures he's got to get away from it all, he comes to Palm Springs, 110 miles due east of Hollywood.

Here he sees other actors, spends his evenings in cocktail parties like those at home, and pays $30 a day for a room overlooking an endless expanse of sage brush, and sand. He could erect a tent a quarter of a mile away in the same desert, with the same sunshine and the same fresh air and it would cost him nothing. He'd rather pay the $30. Palm Springs is the fashionable place to go, this is the height of the season, and movie stars loitering under the grape fruit trees are ten cents a dozen. Nobody pays much attention to 'em. The grape fruit cause more interest. They cost 15 cents a dozen.

We've been here only a couple of days and so far we've noticed such children of the great open spaces as Mary Pickford, Rudy Vallee, Roy Rogers, Judy Garland and Wallace Beery.

There isn't much to do in Palm Springs, except to drink, sit in the sunshine and sweat.

Standard costume for the women seems to be shorts, extra short, and blouses, which don't blouse, plus sunburn go on their faces. The men wear standard Hollywood haberdashery consisting of slacks and shirts in shades of green and mauve.

Movie companies come here constantly on location.

The springs for which the city is named bubble from the earth thru sand a block from the post-office. They smell like the devil.

NITELIFE FOOTNOTES

MILANO CAFE

Probably one of the better, shall we say—supper, in which to work up a good remaining session. Memory of the operators here goes way back, but the atmosphere and outpoured motivating drinks are extra modern.

JUDY'S

Just slip out of your slipper shoes and into your slippers. Settle down for a cozy winter's session. Or maybe it'll be spring by the time this gets into print. Who knows? Anyhow it's always fair weather, etc. ad inf.

WALDO

Take note please of the Cocktail Captain of Industry in this emporium. One Harry Fields. A mighty slick operator who knows his little brown jug formula to perfection. And acts accordingly.

BOXY GRILL

That eminent authority on Dream Books and Have-you-heard-this-uns, Art Steinfeld, is campaigning again. His bar reprieves encompasses all the tastier compositions from "Angel's Wings Tips" to "Mary Manhattans."

ANDY'S CAFE

A noble N. Main-st institution that is piling up an impressive following. Not only nimrods and fishermen frequent Andy's but also many of the mass of non-sporting brothers and sisters find this the answer to the "family place" prayer.

COURT CAFE

Transcontinental is the reputation acquired by this regal-named oyster. Dapper Dick, the hard-working but suave proprietor, has mastered the blending of a beverage and the turning out of a steak to slightly better than perfection.

BARR RAINBOW

Soft lights and sweet music. Sometimes just soft lights. And yet again hot-hot rhythms. Be it a rumba jump or a tete-a-tete, here's the spot.

NEW YORK RESTAURANT

Sturdy is the word for this fine food supply center. Constantly improved cuisine has resulted in a big customer list of those who like the good things in life.

DIXIE NITE CLUB

They're still rolling out the barrel with hilarious persistence 'way down hyar in the Dixie. Always something doing, so choose your partner and come on over.

PARK CAFE

Lee Grainger is a chap of rare discernment. Knows just what you citizens like in the way of entertainment and elbow exercises in other words, here's a spot what is a spot, if we may be so outspoken.

CASTLE FARM

The flowing beaker content is always, high down on the farm. Likewise the fun indicator points to the full pressure level practically all the time.

ALPINE VILLAGE

For calm conversation interspersed with some mighty meritorious drinks, here is the place to come. By the same token if you like out-and-out bang-up fun this is still it.

ALPHA

Geared for everything including a deluge of parachutists is Bill Reese, acting bossman here. Food's fine and drinks ditty. Stop by anytime, see Bill.

NYA TO START COURSE AT ADA IN HOMEMAKING

(Special To The Lima News)
ADA, Feb. 15—A new NYA project will be started in Ada high school under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Webb for girls between the ages of 18 and 25 who wish to receive training for either private employment or homemaking.

Practical experience will be obtained as the girls will study different phases of homemaking while working in the home economics department and in the cafeterias of the high school and grade school.

A course for adults in homemaking started last year was resumed this week under the direction of Miss Jean Macdonald, home economics instructor at Ada high school.

Meetings will be held each Tuesday evening for 12 weeks. Food, clothing, home furnishings, consumer education, child care, and other homemaking subjects will be studied.

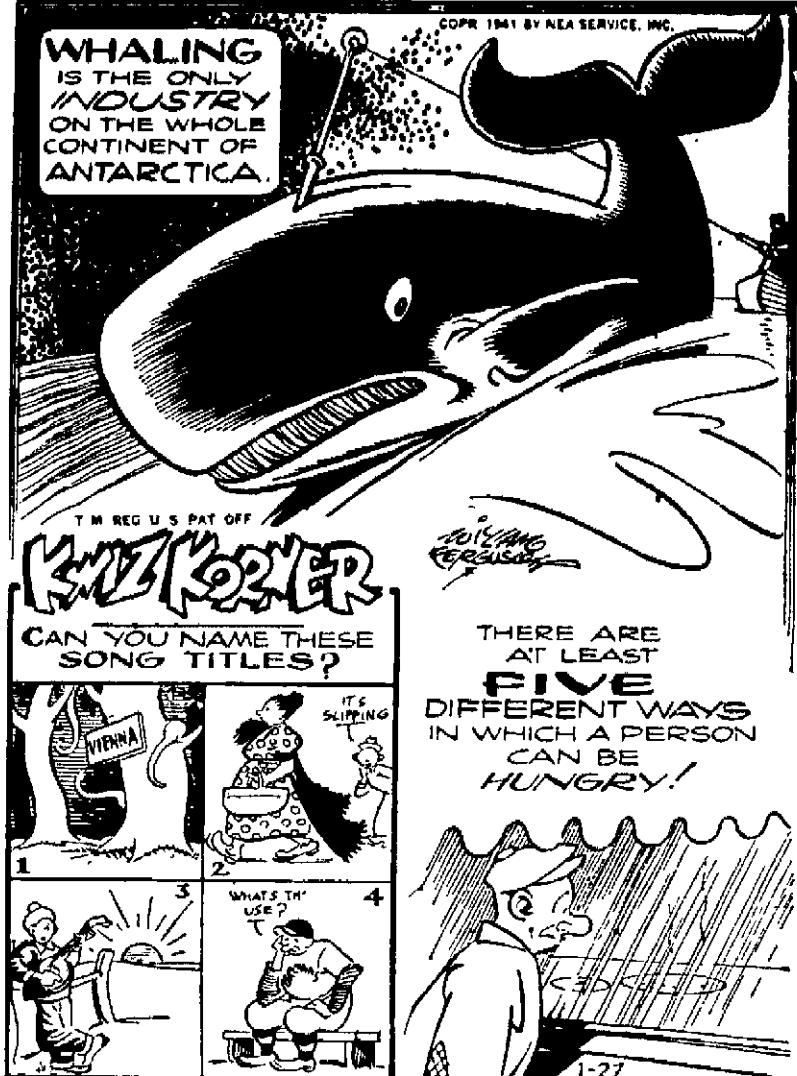

The Canadian province of Ontario produces 82 per cent of the rubber goods production of the Dominion, including footwear.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Lima, O., Feb. 13, 1941.
The Lima News
Lima, Ohio
Gentlemen:

As a taxpayer, and private citizen, I would like to say that the emergency powers given to the executive by congress are illegal, and as a private citizen, I say enactment of such legislation by congress is a deliberate betrayal of public trust—and violation of the oath each member takes when he assumes office.

Congress therefore is and always will be responsible to the people of this nation for blunders made by the President, and by congress itself this is only right and proper, because members of congress are not-elected to represent the President, or the supreme court. They are elected to represent the people, and preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the U. S.

HONEST WOMAN RETURNS MONEY LOST IN LIMA

(Special To The Lima News)
WAYNESFIELD, Feb. 15—Sherman Bennett, 75, a Waynesfield contractor, is $16 happier today because of the honesty of a Spencerville woman.

Bennett was in Lima last Dec. 16 and lost a wallet containing that amount. He inquired at various places he had visited during that day, but no trace of the wallet was found.

He had forgotten the loss until one morning this week a letter arrived in the mail, bearing the $16, just as it was when Bennett lost it. Mrs. F. E. Hays of Spencerville had found the sum in a Lima department store.

THE WHITE HOUSE. By Charles Hurd. Harper and Brothers, $3.00.

The White House in its 140 years of existence has achieved a personality of its own. From the day when John and Abigail Adams set up housekeeping in the ill-equipped and unfurnished house to the time of the current President the house has come to life and has grown rich in experience.

The story of the house's necessarily the story of its occupants: Dolly Madison, popular and extravagant; Peggy O'Neil, author of an historic scandal; Eleanor Roosevelt, who made revolutionary changes. Serenely thru the years the White House has stood defying war, depression and false prosperity.
