

Many Thrills Promised In Pictures Booked At Quilna

"Romance On The Rio Grande" And "Michael Shayne, Private Detective," Scheduled To Start Friday Night

Commencing at the Friday preview at the Quilna theatre are two films offering patrons a generous portion of thrills and excitement with "Romance on the Rio Grande" starring Cesar Romero in another Cisco Kid adventure and "Michael Shayne, Private Detective," starring Lloyd Nolan. The film version of "Tobacco Road," starring Charley Grapewin, concludes its engagement at the preview showing.

Master of mystic and recognized king of magicians, Blackstone is appearing on the stage of the Ohio theatre Thursday and Friday with a new repertoire of mysticism and magic featuring the famous "Hindu Rope Trick." On the screen is "Shadows on the Stairs," starring Paul Cavanagh. Frieda Inescort and Heather Angel. Commencing Saturday will be "Virginia."

"Gene Autry's latest thriller, "Back in the Saddle," brings the singing cowboy to the lyric screen Friday with Edward Norris, Mary Lee and Smiley Burnette in the cast. "Little Orvie" will be the co-feature. Currently showing is "Charter Pilot," a story of serappy love and pilots starring Lloyd Nolan and Lynn Bari and "One Crowded Night."

Lum and Abner, favorite radio stars for several seasons, are the stars of "Dreaming Out Loud," currently at the State theatre. The team, with Frances Langford, brings to the screen the famous "hot-em-down" store and a rural background. Second attraction is "Where Did You Get That Girl?" starring Leon Errol and Helen Parrish.

Bonnie Baker, Orrin Tucker and his orchestra and Jerry Colonna star in the current Sigma fun and musical hit, "You're the One," the story of a girl who changed from a blonde to a brunette to become the singer of a leading band. John Shelton and Virginia Grey are the stars of the added attraction, "Blonde Inspiration."

Majestic fans are provided a comedy hit, "Boys From Syracuse," starring the late Joe Penner, Martha Raye, Charles Butterworth, Allan Jones and Irene Hervey. Co-featured is "Chip of the Flying U."

When Brett Halliday, famed detective story writer, invented Michael Shayne he thought of him as "red-headed, tough-skinned, thirsty and Irish as any dick who ever stood under a bowler hat in a hotel lobby. He has a 'what's in it for me' complex, and a notable capacity for absorbing punishment and anything in a glass."

And so he comes to the screen in the rough-and-romantic person of Lloyd Nolan in "Michael Shayne, Private Detective" which opens Friday at the Quilna theatre.

Nolan, long known for his ready wit and his complete adaptability, fits into the role of the detective perfectly. It was a particularly appealing assignment for him when he discovered charming Marjorie Weaver was to play the girl in the case.

The film has been heralded as one of the most exciting in months, what with its unending situations that put the detective on the spot. Shayne is found with a girl at the scene of the crime; he's the last man to see the victim alive — and his gun is the murder weapon!

But he turns the tables in the unique climax that caps a never flagging story. Cleverly blended in "Michael Shayne, Private Detective" are adventure, action, romance, plenty of humor and a set of unforgettable characters.

The featured cast includes Jean Valere, Walter Abel, Elizabeth Patterson, Donald MacBride and Douglas Dumbrille.

Blackstone, world's master magician, will appear in Lima for a two-day engagement Thursday and Friday at the Ohio theatre.

He has designed a full program which lasts over two hours that is replete with hilarious mirth and a mystery from opening curtain to finale. A piece de resistance of Blackstone's current production will be the famous Hindu rope trick. Never before has a magician attempted to present this celebrated mystery for the entertainment of American audiences. Blackstone claims it is his greatest achievement in magic.

Two full length baggage cars are required to transport his vast array of unusual mysteries, elaborate stage settings and colorful costumes. He carries a virtual menagerie, ranging from a beautiful Arabian horse to countless pigeons, canaries, geese, ducks, and never ending supply of white rabbits, without which no magic show would be complete. Blackstone's company numbers 30 people who aid in proving that the hand — that is the expert hand — is quicker than the eye.

There will be numerous lovely and talented girls in his cast, and each one has been costumed in a different ensemble for the 21 production scenes that will accentuate her particular type of beauty.

The finest cast ever to grace a western film is the distinction of Republic's "Back in the Saddle," starring the famous Gene Autry and featuring his ace comedian sidekick, Smiley Burnette, which opens Friday at the Lyric theatre.

Gene himself was recently selected for fourth place in the Quigley Publications' authoritative Ten Top Stars of 1940 — an honor never before accorded a western star. Too, Smiley Burnette is listed among the top five of western favorites in many polls, though he has never had higher than co-star billing!

The supporting cast speaks for itself. Handsome young Edward Norris, who made a lasting name for himself in "They Won't Forget," "The Magnificent Butte," and other films, stars top supporting roles with lovely Jacqueline Wells and charming little Mary Lee. Other luminaries included Addison Richards, Arthur Loft and Bob Barron.

In "Back in the Saddle," Gene is seen as the leader of the ranchers in a dispute with E. G. Blaine, a ruthless mine owner who is needlessly poisoning the streams from which the cattle drink. Gene tries to restrain him, but is hampered by the actions of his ward, Tom, who believes that Gene is falling in love with his sweetheart, Tuffy. Tom's misdirected energies finally get Gene and himself trapped by Blaine's men. Gene, with the aid of Smiley, fights his way out and saves Tom in a climax filled with thrills and action.

Handleaders in a mad scramble for radio sponsors, the comical tricks they employ, and a brunette who has to change her hair to blonde to become successful as a singer, figure in the story of "You're the One," latest comedy with music, which is now at the Sigma theatre, with Bonnie Baker, Orrin Tucker and his orchestra and Jerry Colonna in leading roles.

As the plot develops, the scene shifts from the broadcasting studios to a looney weight-reducing sanitarium, operated by Jerry Colonna.

Featured in the cast are Albert Dekker, Edward Everett Horton and Teddy Hart.

Sparkling comedy, with cast and story built for laughs, is at the Sigma theatre where "Blonde Inspiration" is now showing. The picture introduces a new romantic team in John Shelton and Virginia Grey, two youngsters who appear headed for stellar heights in Hollywood.

The story deals with a young writer, played by Shelton, who attempts to get his name before the public by writing for a Western pulp magazine. To do it, however, he has to buy a share in the magazine. Then he finds that he must write the whole magazine, being the sole member of the staff. That means that he must turn out three short stories, a complete novel and two columns each week, a man-sized job.
