Co-featured is "The Roar of the Press."

There's something thrilling in the air, and the movie industry has dramatized it, photographed it in color and served it up under the title of "Dive Bomber," with two of the screen's most dashing heroes, Errol Flynn and Fred Me-Murray for its co-stars. It is now at the Ohio and features a topnotch supporting cast headed by Ralph Bellamy.

The Bumsteads move into the dizzy heights of the social ladder in "Blandie in Society," now showing at the Quilna theatre with the familiar stars, Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Simms in their regular roles.
