Good Listening: Music

By LESLIE SPENCE (Of the Radio Committee, Madison Branch, American Association of University Women)

December is a musical festival, tra-la-la, with Christmas music taking its dignified place, with opera also in season (Metropolitan, Saturday 1 p. m., WIBA, WMAQ; Chicago opera, Monday, 10 p. m., WGN), and with symphonies the meat of the

This year Madison hears without interruption the NBC orchestra, Tuesdays 8:30-9:30, WENR. Music lovers have refused dinner invitations rather than miss a concert by this orchestra. It is the first full-sized orchestra to be formed in this country by a broadcasting company. It ranks four the heat I is four years old on Modern History by Prof. Easum. with the best. a mere infant compared with others often heard on the air; with the 41-year old Philadelphia orcnestra, for example, or with the rentury-old New York Philharmonic (2:00 - 3:30 Sundays, WBBM).

Curious how different the same symphony, played by the same orchestra, can sound! Not so curious, either, come to think of it. Two musicians playing the same selection on the same piano produce quite different effects; two conductors bring as different qualities to the performance of the same symphony and the same orchestra.

The best conductors obtainable have led the NBC orchestra. This year ill health keeps Toscauliniform taking charge of it. But another distinguished conductor, Install Stalegushed conductor.

from taking charge of it. But another distinguished conductor, Leopold Stokowski of the Philadelphia orchestra has directed the November concerts: later he will conduct another series of four on March 24, 31, April 7, 14, During November the popularity of the NBC orchestra and of Stokowski Other Stations Sunday has been so great the NBC studio and in New York, the largest broadcasting studio in the world, iit seats 1.500), was too small to accommodate the would-be au-dience. As a result, NBC rented a larger auditorium and charged admission to defray the expenses-
