Olsen and Johnson's turbulent revue, "Hellzapoppin," when it opens at the Ohio theatre Monday evening for one performance Patrons are urged to be in their seats on time, since this, boisterous show not only starts pulled right at the opening.

Broadway's longest running musical with a record of three solid years behind it, "Hellzapoppin" is the musical show which turned into a national institution. Not only are there mad geings-on behind the footlights during the performance of "Hellzapoppin" but also in the auditorium proper. Let the audience be warned. The person in the next seat may well be suspected of being one of the innumerable stooges who embellish the most boisterous and scatterbrained revue in the his tory of the American theatre.

The cast of 100 is headed by Billy House and Eddie Garr, who now constitute one of the bright-
