Many Changes In Romances Are Certain

Othman Says What's True Today Don't Mean It Is True Next Week

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
UP Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17—(UP)—About this time of year when our private lemon tree begins to bloom and springtime heads for California it is our custom to put our foot, our great big foot, into the hearts and flowers situation. Yep, we're talking about love. Mostly when an actress tells us she is going to marry, gent, she ups and marries somebody else. Sometimes she'll say she hates the guy, but she marries him just the same. So we can't guarantee a single statement hereinafter; the trouble seems to be that movie ladies always are changing their minds. Anyhow: Dolores Del Rio's divorce becomes final this month. She's been going places and seeing things with Orson Welles for a year and the experts on such subjects have set the wedding date for sometime in the next couple of weeks. We're inclined to doubt whether Welles ever does, marry Miss Del Rio. His loss, too, if he doesn't.

Then we have Miss Lana Turner, who has announced she's going to marry nobody for awhile. So okay. Miss Turner is spending every spare moment with Tommy Dorsey, the horn tooter. They're even getting their picture in the papers holding hands. Miss Turner likes band leaders. Used to be married to one, name of Artie Shaw. Dorsey's wife now is in the process of divorcing him. And so—

Dorothy Lamour, who once announced she was engaged to a Navy lieutenant, and then started going with Greg Bautzer, the lawyer isn't going with him anymore. She's in the east now, selling defense bonds. She's not the romance specialist over a barrel; they have no idea who she'll marry, or when. Maybe she'll be a bachelor girl.

Judy Canova's not having much to do with her friends; she was burned in divorce court recently. Gail Patrick's being seen with assorted handsome gentlemen these evenings, so there's nothing to put your finger on there. G. Raft and B. Grable still are going steady, but he's still a legally married man. Since her dates with Jimmy Stewart ceased, even before he was drafted, Olivia DeHavilland has not been seen with any of the Hollywood swains. Marjorie Weaver's wondering whether to marry her Chicago stock broker, or to remarry her ex-husband now in the Navy.

Cary Grant's affair with the 10 cent store herself still seems to be going strong, though we wouldn't want to place any bets either way. Jean Gabin is seeing a lot of Marlene Dietrich, though she still has a perfectly good husband.

Some of the girls are casting a contemplative eye at Errol Flynn whose marriage to Lila Damita this time seems to be final. The talks who talked about a romance between Sterling Hayden and Madeline Carroll seemed to be all wet. He's at home. She's making movies, but his mother is one of her neighbors and closest friends. Hedy Lamarr is going with John Howard.

Nineteen forty two, meantime, has brought on a rash of weddings.

Sally Rand has promised to love, honor, etc., her cowboy, Mickey Rooney has married Ava Gardner. Maureen O'Hara took unto herself her dialogue director, Ann Sheridan after all these years married George Brent.

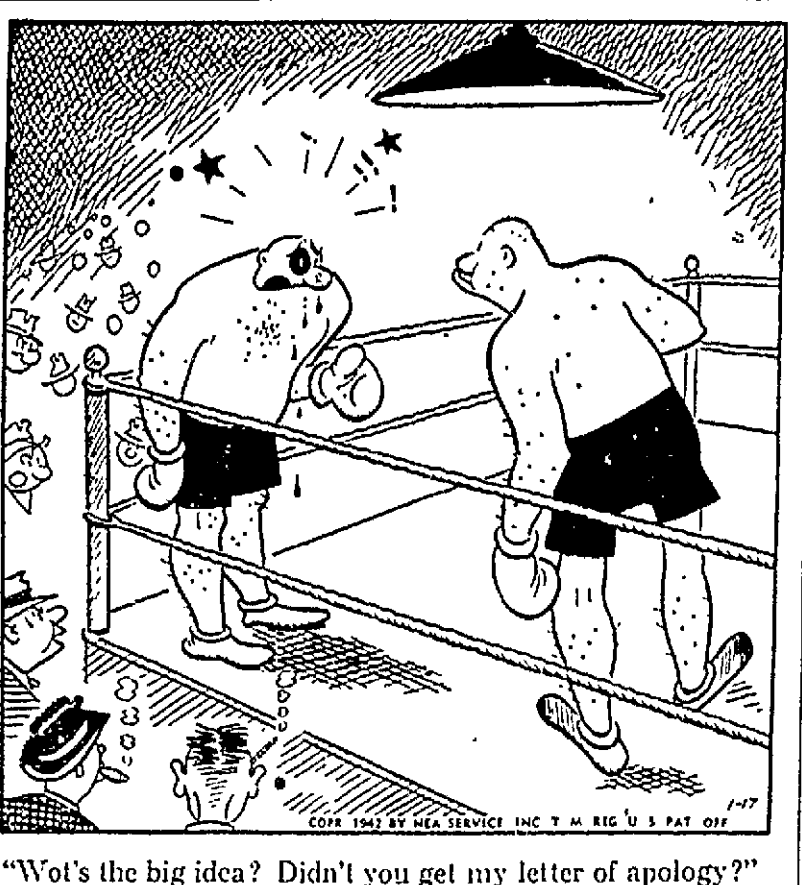

And that would seem to take care of love, Hollywood style, at this writing. By day after tomorrow the whole situation doubtless will be changed, anyway.

NITE LIFE FOOTNOTES

WALDO GRILL—"Pop 'n Henry" are the genial proprietors who have the situation well in hand in this place. The boys are well known for their handcraft in beverage blending and can whip up your favorite mixed drink with loving care and precision.

BLUE PEAKS—Operating under new management, this spot is dealing out dancing and drinking every night. Somewhat special is the Friday night fish fry. Place is located two miles east of Lima in the Harding-highway.

LOUIE'S NITE CLUB—Having just fought my way thru a tasty entanglement of spaghetti with meat balls, I can give my heartiest endorsement to the dish and the establishment.

DIXIE NITE CLUB—If you are a hound for old time music and nasal-intoned ballads, whiz in to this oasis. They even have a state fiddling champ in attendance. That master of merriment, Clyde Dixon is head man.

BAER RAINBOW ROOM—Cheerful chatter always re-ounds in these spacious halls. To say nothing of mighty sharp dance music poured out for dancing in the East Room.

COURT CAFE—A slick spot. A fine music host atmosphere is evaded by the manager. Also the drinks are carefully stirred up and food served in a lavish manner.

FLORENTINE ROOM—Swanky!

ROXY GRILL—Much fun is had here not only by the customers but also by the twin bosses who romp about gleefully.

CASTLE FARM—Putting 'em in from far and near are the floor shows presented at this pioneer of Lima night clubs. Has just the right zing for that night-out spree.

ALPINE VILLAGE—Oancing in a rafter-shaking manner goes on here to the rhythms of Stubby Williams and his orchestra. All styles of potables are served.

MILANO CAFE—Strictly unique, from the "Spanish" murals to the sea food "fountain" near the front door. Almost anything can, and usually does, happen at the Milano. But Frank continues to look smilingly upon life and the customers.

NEWYORKER—Chicken in baskets and some of the best mixed drinks in the village are to be found here.

MEET THE SOUTH AMERICANS. By Carl Crow. Harper and Brothers, $3.00.

Crow shows again that he is a keen observer and also a good writer. He gives an account of his recent travels in South America with an informal picture of the manners and customs of the people, description of the country side, etc. He explodes some of the myths about the strength of the Nazi trade menace in South America and gives up-to-date information on the subject of North American business methods.

ISLAND IN THE CORN. By John Nelby. Farrar and Rinehart, 2.75.

A big, rich book which pictures the life of a well-to-do family in the middlewest in the 1880's. It concerns the events of a dozen years or more when the Trace family fortunes gradually declined and the family came to a small Missouri village. Father Trace was a man born with money and imagination who failed as much because of his good qualities as because of his weaknesses. The daughters and sons-in-law all respond differently to the family influence, but the greatest thing about the family was that it endured in spirit.

ILL SING ONE SONG. By Willie Swan Edridge. The Macmillan Co. $1.50.

If you have ever tried to ice-skate, taken up the movie-camera, made a wild flower garden, tried to keep peace in a family of four children, or ever had a dog, you will have a fellow-feeling for the author. Mrs. Edridge is the wife of a newspaper man, the mother of four children, and a writer. She writes a gay, domestic commentary, one which is designed to take your mind off the troubles of the world and

RIVER RISKS. By Helen Raymond Beals. The Macmillan Co. $2.50.

A New England village is about to be demolished and flooded as a part of a huge reservoir project. The situation is original and dramatic but the book gains its real distinction from the very fine portrayal of the villagers who are about to lose their cherished homes as a sacrifice to modern economic demands. The New England town pictured here is not pinched and dem. for it has its moments of humor even when nearing its end. These books may be reserved by calling the Circulation department, 73171.

U. S. FORCES MAY TRANSFER TO OWN FLAG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt announced tonight that an arrangement was being worked out for the gradual transfer of American armed forces of those United States citizens now fighting under other anti-Axis flags who desire to make the change.

He emphasized in a statement that all the transfers could not be made immediately without reducing the effectiveness of their present units and that pending completion of transfer arrangements Americans involved could "best serve the interests of their country" by remaining in the business in which they enlisted.

Prior to America's entry into the war, hundreds of citizens of this country had joined Canadian and British air forces and other units, while others resigned American commissions and formed a volunteer flying group to help guard the Burma road to China. A few also have joined the Free French forces.

One of the best known of the American groups is the "Eagle Squadron" of the R. A. F.

The President mentioned specifically Americans fighting in "British, Canadian and allied units" and said these units would be "particularly" affected if the transfers were made all at once.
