

Romance Is Featured In Current Lima Pictures

Quilna, Ohio Films Offer Top Players

Claudette Colbert, John Payne, Tracy, Katherine Hepburn Featured

"Remember the Day," a story that will rouse hidden memories in every woman is the current cinema treat at the Quilna theatre, with John Payne and Claudette Colbert in the leading roles. Others in the cast include John Sheppard, Ann Todd, Douglas Croft, Jane Seymour, Anne Revere and Frieda Inescort.

Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn are the stars of the current Ohio film, "Woman of the Year," the story of a two-fisted sports writer who falls in love with his newspaper's celebrated feminine columnist. Fay Bainter and Reginald Owen head the supporting cast in the picture.

The mischievous tomboy of last year is the glamour girl of today in "A Very Young Lady," which features Jane Withers in a romantic role of adult proportions. Nancy Kelly and John Sutton head the supporting cast of the play. In the co-feature, "Red River Valley," Roy Rogers departs from recent historical characterizations and portrays the role of modern, hard-fighting cowboy.

Bruce Cabot and Constance Bennett are the stars of the thrilling western drama, "Wild Bill Hickok Rides," now at the Sigma theatre. Cabot appears as Hickok, the two-fisted marshal whose work in bringing law and order to frontier towns made his name one of the best known in frontier history. "All American Co-Eds" is the co-feature.

An innocent little bet leads to plenty of comical results in the current State film, "Nothing But the Truth," starring Bob Hope and Edward Arnold. Hope has the role of broker, who bets that he can tell the truth for 24 hours, and then has to prove it. The co-feature features another episode in the life of America's problem youth, "Henry Aldrich For President."

Currently at the Majestic theatre are "Sonny" and "Long Shot."

Singing Star Too Good For Part In Film

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14 — The girl wasn't doing so well. She sat at the grand piano, looking pretty, blue-eyed, demure, and worried. It was all her fault, obviously. They couldn't get the scene right.

"Look, honey," said Lew Seiler, "you're not supposed to be a grand opera star. Just a woman singing. Just singing, fooling around at the piano."

"Oh," said Irene Manning. "I see."

So she tried again. Raised her nice lyric soprano and sang "Body and Soul" like a light opera star, which she was before she came to movies, only then she was Irene Manning, not Irene.

"Bad," said the director. "I mean, it's too good. You sing too good. You aren't supposed to be a singer."

"I see," said Miss Manning, and then she sang "Body and Soul" just a little better than before. "Escape Into Crime" wasn't getting anywhere—fast.

"We'll have to get a singer and dub it in," said Harold Winston. He's the dialogue director. "Anybody know a singer who's not so hot, that can just carry a tune?"

You and I could have mentioned a few, but just then somebody was smitten with genius. "Don't let her sing at all," said the smittee. "I mean, she can just hum. You know, da-da-da, then a word or so, and da-da-da."

It was wonderful. It worked. Miss Manning sings beautifully, but her hum is just—er, ho-hum. "Nice," beamed Lew Seiler.

On the set of "My Gal Sal" Rita Hayworth had vocal problems of another kind. Rita is a looker, and she can dance with anybody, but she isn't looking for immortality as a singer. Her studio, cognizant of the fact, is not asking her to sing the several tunes she will have to sing on the screen.

So Rita has been practicing lip movements to synchronize with the sound track of Nan Wynn's rich voice in "Banks of the Wash."

NAMED BY TRIBE
CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 14—(UP)—Dan Taylor, Cleveland newspaperman, today assumed new duties as publicity director for the Cleveland Indians. He formerly was sports editor of the Lorain Times-Herald and a sports writer for the Cleveland News.

Savannah, founded by Gen Oglethorpe in 1833, was the first settlement in Georgia.

Lovely Star Featured In Quilna Film

There is a good reason why Claudette Colbert chose "Remember the Day" as the one picture she does this year outside of her Paramount contract.

A few years ago Claudette was suddenly discovered as a great comedienne when she played in "It Happened One Night." That picture turned not only Claudette, but also the entire motion picture industry, along the path of light comedy.

Light comedy roles. Claudette Colbert reached a height of stardom far greater than she had enjoyed before.

"But now I am beginning to think of that frightening bogey of all actors — typing," says Claudette.

"There may come a time when a great dramatic role will offer itself and people will have forgotten that I ever did anything besides comedy."

That is why Claudette Colbert chose "Remember the Day," romantic drama, which is at the Quilna theatre.

MAXIE IN FILMS
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 14—(INS)—Max Baer was readying himself for another go at Hollywood today. His manager, Anell Hoffman, said that the Hal Roach studios had signed him for a picture and that the former world's heavyweight champ would depart for the film colony soon.

CLEVELAND MAN WILL ADDRESS LIMA AD CLUB

"Selling Facilities for Defense and Preparing for Post War Business" is the subject to be discussed by George T. Trundle Jr., president of The Trundle Engineering Co., Cleveland, when he addresses the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Advertising club of Lima at 11:45 a. m. Friday, in the Barr hotel.

All business men in the Lima area who are interested in hearing Trundle's talk have been invited to attend the meeting by making reservation thru the Association of Commerce, it was announced by James V. Skates, Ad club president and secretary of the association.

Trundle is a member of the Advisory Engineering committee to Floyd Odlum, and also is advisor to the Engineering and Planning branch of the Division of Contract Distribution. He organized his firm in 1919 to render consulting service to industry and business on management, sales, production and product problems.

Metropolitan Director To Be Interviewed By Cross

Arch Oboler Turns To Satirical Comedy For Third Of His "Plays For Americans" Due At 4:30 P. M. Sunday

Maestro Wilfred Pelletier will step down from the podium where he directs "Metropolitan Opera Auditions of the Air" to take the mike for a special interview with Milton Cross on Sunday at 5 p. m. over WEAF.

Arch Oboler is turning to satirical comedy for the third of his "Plays for Americans" which will star Raymond Massey in "Memo to Berchtesgaden" Sunday at 4:30 p. m. over WEAF.

Who doesn't remember "Take Me Out to the Ball Game?" and "Shine On, Harvest Moon?" The man who wrote—and sang—those songs, Jack Norworth, will be guest star on "Those Good Old Days" Sunday, over WJZ at 8:30 p. m.

Singapore . . . Saigon . . . Batavia . . . Borneo . . . Manila . . . These and other exotic ports of call, background for history today, have been the background for mystery and intrigue since ships first sailed into tropic waters. They will be the background for adventure, mystery and comedy in "Three Sheets to the Wind," an authentic new drama which will unfold weekly before WEAF listeners, beginning Sunday, at 11:30 p. m.

A Lima boy, former employee of the circulation department of The Lima News, was pictured in a series of photos taken at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., and published in the Saturday edition of The Chicago Tribune.

He is Private Irvin J. VonAlmen. He is included in a group talking training to be weather observers, and shows him peering thru an instrument which appears to be a sextant.

The page of pictures explains that Chanute Field is listed as a technical university of the air which trains young men to "Keep 'Em Flying."

KAYO FOR THOMPSON
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14—(INS)—Turkey Thompson, Los Angeles Negro heavyweight, today had marked up an easy two-round knockout over Henry Cooper, Brooklyn brawler whose chief claim to fame is that he twice went the distance with Billy Conn.

Studies reveal oil trucks today are among the safest vehicles on the highway.

NITE LIFE FOOTNOTES

LOUIE'S NITE CLUB—The new dance floor has met with great approval by clients so far and is one of the in-parking features. Orchestra music on Saturday nights makes the going smoother.

WALDO GRILL—Two big names in the local fill-in-who's who, Pop 'n' Henry, are responsible for the fine output of drinks and food-stuffs at this place. Also, observe please, the pumpkin-sized onions in the Martini.
