Three Great Stars Appear In Film Due At The State

'Hold Back The Dawn" Has Boyer, Goddard And De Havilland In Leads; "Hellzapoppin" Current On Ohio Screen

Charles Boyer, as the suave gentleman who effects an illegal entry into this country by marrying a "native girl" plays the lead in "Hold Back the Dawn" that begins a run Thursday at the State theatre. But old slicker Boyer easts aside his caddish pranks, develops true love, does right by the gal and everything ends up with good old flag waving enthusiasm. Paulette Goddard and Olivia Dellavilland are the points of feminine interest. Secondary feature, is "Kathleen." In the interim, "One Foot in Heaven" and "Target for Tonight" are offered at the State. Tripple-plated fun and foolishment run rife across the Ohio screen during the current maniacal presentation of "Hellzapop-Stairing Olsen and Johnson, this ultra-goofy special also

That new "total glamor" girl,
Gene Tierney does some choice bits of throwing her elegantly allocated weight about in "Son of Fury" now displayed at the Quilna theatre. This exotic girl plays the role of a native along with Tyione Power's soldier of fortune portiaval. John Cariadine, Frances Farmer, Harry Davenport, Pudley Diggs and George Sanders also are in the cast.

Much action, machine gun operation and all the blood and thunder heroism that makes for good movie entertainment is displayed starting Wednesday at the Sigma.
