

Laugh-Packed Picture Will Open At The Quilna Friday

"A Gentleman At Heart" To Start At Preview Showing; Milton Berle, Cesar Romero And Carole Landis Starred

Gangland invades the art world and art becomes another racket, but an extremely hilarious one as Milton Berle, Cesar Romero and Carole Landis picture it, in "A Gentleman At Heart" which commences with a Friday preview showing at the Quilna theatre. Charlie Ruggles and Charlotte Greenwood are the comedy stars of the co-feature, "The Perfect Snob," while the concluding film is "Son of Fury," starring Tyrone Power and Gene Tierney.

A motion picture overflowing with all the ingredients of delightful and zealous entertainment is "New Wine," which co-stars Ilona Massey and Alan Curtis at the Sigma theatre. It is the story of Franz Schubert's early Viennese days, and his romances. Co-featured is "A Yank on the Burma Road," starring Lorraine Day and Barry Nelson.

Gene Autry's newest picture, "Down Mexico Way," now at the Lyric theatre, deals with Gene's efforts to expose a criminal gang who are attempting to stage a false "World Premier" of a motion picture. A melodrama of gangsterism is the co-feature "Riot Squad," starring Richard Cromwell, Rita Quigley, John Miljan and Mary Ruth.

Olsen and Johnson, stage comedians par excellence, carry their remarkable style to the screen in the Ohio picture, "Hellzapoppin'," based on the stage show that rocked Broadway for three full seasons. Others in the cast are Martha Raye, Hugh Herbert and Mischa Auer.

At the State theatre Charles Boyer and Olivia de Havilland head the cast of the exciting drama, "Hold Back the Dawn," with the popular French idol in the unique role of an immigrant who marries a woman to gain entrance to this country. Co-featured is "Kathleen," starring Shirley Temple.

At the Majestic theatre the program includes "Big Store" and "Pot O' Gold."

QUILNA

Love is where you find it—but who would ever think that tall, dark and handsome Cesar Romero would meet blithe, blonde and beautiful Carole Landis in an art gallery!! And when Cupid finds culture and culture finds Romero—and Romero can't find Milton Berle—you're in for a fiesta of romance and merriment in the sparkling comedy, "A Gentleman at Heart" opening Friday at the Quilna theatre.

With larceny in his eyes, a "fine" on his lips and a "lovely" on his mind, suave Romero leads this gangland invasion of the art world and becomes involved in one hilarious escapade after the other. And what with Carole Landis trying to straighten him out and with visceracking Milton Berle trying to go straight,

FUNNY BUSINESS

"I'm going to quit—it's getting so the public expects too much!"

When Gene Autry skyrocketed to the top of the box office list, Republic very wisely decided to increase the budget on all his pictures, and to make two of them each year on a lavish scale to compare with the most elaborate output of the major studios.

The first picture in this experiment was "Melody Ranch" which surpassed all expectations in public favor.

Autry was never better than now, in the colorful role of the small town cowboy who outsmarts the Hollywood slickers when he discovers that he and his townspeople are being "taken for a ride" by them.

The slickers' modus operandi is to come into a western town of historical interest and tell the citizenry that a picture is to be filmed here and the world premiere held here also, thus bringing publicity and prosperity to the town. Of course the natives are asked to underwrite a large portion of the expense of the film, but they are told their ensuing prosperity will repay them a thousand fold.

When Gene learns that the crooks plan to decamp with the life savings of his townspeople, he and Smiley go after them hammer and tong, and there is plenty of fast action, thrills and romance in the ensuing sequences.

Fay McKenzie proves herself to be an actress of top merit in her debut role. Sidney Blackmer and Arthur Loft score as the crooks, and Harold Huber turns in an excellent comedy portrayal as "Panchito Grande," the reformed bandit.

Grated orange and lemon rinds will last a week if stored in covered jars in refrigerator. These rinds make delicious flavorings for sauces, cakes, puddings and cookies.

Now he is Private, First Class, James J. Cannon, 23, a volunteer.
