Gene Autry's Western Film To Open Tuesday At Lyric

Picturization Of Popular Book Holds Forth On Ohio Screen; Betty Grable Heads Quilna Billing

Scheduled to commence Tuesday at the Lyric theatre is "Heart of the Rio Grande," starring Gene Autry and his ever-present comedian, Smiley Burnett, in another saga of the west. Johnny Downs proves that he's still holding a high degree of popularity by gaining the starring role of "Freckles Comes Home," story of a boy fresh from college who finds some adventure in a small town. Showing for the last times Monday are "Orchids to You" and "The Kid From Kansas."

The apparently humdrum small city of the American midlands, wherein all human passions and prejudices are encompassed in a small space, is the foundation for "Kings Row," at the Ohio, which is proving equally as popular as a cinema dish as it did a reading treat. Ronald Reagan, Ann Sheridan, Betty Field and Robert Cummings occupy the principal roles in this film.

Betty Grable reverts to the dancing type that carried her to fame in her role in "Song of the Islands," now at the Quilna. The current dances are enlivened by the swishing of her grass skirts, with Hawaiian music providing the tempo. Victor Mature lends his handsome features to the glamorous film, with Jack Oakie assigned to the funny talk role.

Right out of Walt Disney's dizziest bucket of paint are the fantastic creatures that perform in "Dumbo," the cartoon wizard's latest full-length feature, now showing at the Sigma. This is the story of a baby elephant born with ears so big he can fly. Also showing is "Call Out the Marines," starring cinema's favorite leathernecks, Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe.

Holding the fort a tthe State theatre is "The Man Who Came to Dinner," featuring a cast of stellar performers including Bette Davis, Monty Woolley, Ann Sheridan, Billie Burke, Reginald Gardiner, Jimmy Durante and Richard Travis. A lady judge is sentenced to love imprisonment in the co-feature, "Design for Scandal." starring Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon.

Betty Grable is now a princess of one of the tribes native to the South Seas!

During the filming of her latest starring vehicle, "Song of the Islands," produced in Technicolor by 20th Century-Fox, Betty had a scene in which she was supposed to be inducted into the local tribe. The ceremony took place with great fanfare and a native "extra" officiated. Climaxed by a big dance in which Betty shows anew that she can dance with the best, the it is that Autry has that makes day. ceremony is a high spot of the him one of the most spectacular.
