"Cirls' Town," the new film at the Lyric theatre, stars Edith Fellows, June Storey, Alice White and Kenneth Howell in a story of girls who come to Hollywood to make a name for themselves in the cinema world. Bang up action creates the furor in the dust-raising added attraction, "Western Mail."

A pair of dripping horror films highlights the program of the State theatre where "The Wolf Man" and "The Mad Doctor of Market Street" hold forth for the next three days. Among the familiar faces seen in the films are those of Claude Rains, Bela Lugosi, Warren William, Ralph Bellamy, Patric Knowles, Lon Cheney. Lionel Atwill, Una Merkel, and Nat

Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll are the stars of the current Ohio film, "My Favorite Blonde," in which the comedians take an old plot, change the word villians to Nazis, add a pinch of slapstick but give it color and dash, and emerge with satisfactory results. The film even contains a photographer's slip, into which fell Bing Crosby, to give the picture a unique angle.

The poignant romance that the shadow of grim menace and terror incited by the sinister activities of the ruthless Gestapo in Paris of today, forms the basis of "Joan of Paris," starring Michael Morgan, French screen star and Paul Henreid. Nancy Kelly and Richard Carlson are the stars of the added attraction, "Fly By Night."

LYRIC

What happens to girls who come to Hollywood in search of screen success? Only one in a thousand makes the grade in films, and "Girls' Town," now at the Lyric, is the story of just such a girl, and of the countless others who haven't got what it takes. Edith Fellows and June Storey are co-starred, as sisters, who are stranded in Hollywood by an unscrupulous promoter, after June has won the trip in a fake beauty contest which labeled her "Miss Ohio Valley." Edith, her younger sister, has no illusions about becoming a film star, but is taken along as traveling companion to her sister, and when the girls go to live in "Girls' Town," a co-operative boarding house run by Anna Q. Nilsson, a former film star, she obtains a job in a local restaurant to tide them over financially until Jane can get her first important break.

When June's conceit gets on their nerves, the girls send her to see agent Kenny Howell, who unknown to her, handles only birds and animals. However, the gag backfires when Kenny wins her a screen test in a gin-rummy game with a famous producer. The progress she has made

goes to June's head, and she starts

PARTY PLANNED FOR ELEPHANT ON BIRTHDAY

One of the year's most eventful occasions, at least to the person-nel of the Dodson's Worlds Fair Shows, showing at Bellefontaine and Kibby-sts this week, will be the celebration Saturday afternoon of the birthday of "Pinto," the "Queen of Elephantana Land" who will on that day celebrate her 65th birthday. To commemorate the occasion, the management of the big show invites all the children of Lima and vicinity, under the age of 15 years, to attend the birthday party, which will be in

"Pinto" likewise has the unique distinction of celebrating her 50th year in service in the realms, of rumbling red wagons, blaring bands and billowing canvas, for her first appearance in America dates back to 1892 when she was purchased by the famous Gentry Brothers Circus as that show's first elephant from Louise Rhue. wild animal importer.
