

Helen Hayes To Play Leading Role In Radio Presentation

Margaret Speaks To Sing Song Written By Uncle; John Charles Thomas Also On Feature Program

Helen Hayes, first lady of the theatre, does a belated encore in the procession of stars over "Cavalade of America" in the broadcast at 8 p. m. Monday, over WEA-F, as Julia Ward Howe in "The Hymn From The Night."

The inspired writing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," for which Julia Ward Howe is best known, will, of course, be a high spot in the play, which is a new one. Other incidents in the life of the abolitionist and militant advocate of woman's suffrage in the drama will include the attack on Charles Sumner at his desk in the chamber of the United States Senate by Representative Preston Brooks.

Cecil B. DeMille's Radio theatre presentation for Monday at 9:00 p. m. over WABC will be "The Champ," co-starring Wallace Beery and Josephine Hutchinson.

Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra with special vocalists start a new series on WABC Monday, at 7:30 p. m., and celebrate their third anniversary as a group at the same time. Monroe will lead the group with his trumpet and baritone singing and will feature such personalities as Marilyn Duke, Ziggy Talent, the Four V's male quartet and a new female quartet, the Four M's, heard with Vaughn for the first time in the premiere. Monroe will double from the stage of the Paramount theatre in New York, where he's playing for two weeks.

Margaret Speaks offers what is perhaps the most-requested song in her large repertoire — "Morning," by her uncle, Oley Speaks — on the "Voice of Firestone" Monday, at 8:30 p. m. over WEA-F.

The soprano also sings "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," "Estrellita" and "Heath the Southern Moon." The Firestone Symphony under Alfred Wallenstein, completes the broadcast with the Polonaise from "Mignon," Infante's "Ritmo," and Beethoven's "Minuet in G."

John Charles Thomas, ranking American baritone of Metropolitan Opera, concert and musical comedy, stars on the "Telephone Hour" Great Artists Series Monday, at 9:00 p. m. over WEA-F. In case members of a certain

Joe Brown Has Major Role In Feature At Lyric Theatre

Another Andy Hardy Adventure Holds Spotlight At State; French Star Appearing In Feature At Quilna

A comedy of the wide-open spaces stars Joe E. Brown and commences at the Lyric theatre Tuesday, the title being "Shut My Big Mouth." Adele Mara, Victor Jory and Fritz Feld head the supporting cast. Co-featured will be "Criminals Within," starring Eric Linden and Ann Doran. The concluding bill Monday lists "Footlight Fever," with Alan Mowbray, Donald MacBride and Elizabeth Risdon, and "Driftin' Kid," with Tom Keene.

Andy Hardy finds a new romance and successfully gets out of it to become a free man again in "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," which is now at the State theatre. Members of the cast include Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Donna Reed, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden and Sara Haden. Also showing is "Call Out the Marines," starring Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe.

Currently at the Quilna theatre is "Moonlight," starring Jean Gabin, Ida Lupino, Thomas Mitchell and Claude Rains, with the co-feature, "It Happened In Flatbush," starring Lloyd Nolan and Carol Landis. Jean Gabin, the former French matinee idol about whom much has been written, makes an impressive debut in "Moonlight."

Irene Dunne, in "Lady in a Jam," at the Ohio theatre Tuesday, plays the role of an irresponsible Manhattan heiress who goes bankrupt and travels west to Arizona to recoup her fortune working an abandoned gold mine. The current set-up is Blue Barron and his orchestra on the stage and "Juke Box Jenny" on the screen, for Monday only.

The exciting story of a professional killer who goes soft for the only time in his life, falls for a girl, and helps her smash a ring of Axis spies, is told in "This Gun For Hire," now at the Sigma theatre. Veronica Lake, Robert Preston, Laird Cregar and Alan Ladd are the stars of the picture. Also showing is "About Face," starring William Tracy and Joe Sawyer.

One of the most delightful entertaining movies of this or any other season is now at the Ohio theatre, "Lady in a Jam."

Miss Dunne is outstanding as the New York heiress who goes bankrupt because she can't distinguish between principle and interest. She goes west to the badlands of Arizona to recoup her lost fortune working an abandoned gold mine in a ghost town. In spite of her past brilliant dramatic performances, Miss Dunne's forte is definitely comedy.

Appearing with Miss Dunne is Patricia Knowles as the sober psychiatrist who endeavors to get the pleasant delusions out of her pretty head. Ralph Bellamy portrays a showoff cowboy who can't do anything well but tries everything.

Knowles must be regarded as one of Hollywood's top leading men now. His performance is convincing, smooth and teasing him with Miss Dunne was a master stroke by La Cava. Bellamy tops ever as the wonderfully naive, druggist cowboy with his guitar over his shoulder and a song on his lips.

Eugene Pallette is seen as the rotund attorney who tries to prevent Miss Dunne from squandering her fortune. Quenice Vassar appears as Miss Dunne's hard-bitten grandmother living in the Arizona ghost town. Samuel S. Hinds, Harrie Albright, Russell Hicks and Emmett Vogan have prominent roles.

Joe E. Brown returns to the Lyric theatre screen on Tuesday in "Shut My Big Mouth," a laugh-louder comedy of the wide open spaces. Hailed by Hollywood as a re-do of years, in which the cove-mouthed comic appears as a fun-loving fool who licks a gun-totin' band of range renegades, "Shut My Big Mouth" also serves to introduce one of the season's loveliest, and most talented newcomers, the brunette-beautiful Adele Mara.

"Shut My Big Mouth" presents Joe E. in one of his most delightful roles . . . or, if the truth must be told, in two of his most delightful roles. The dual nature of his performance lies in the fact that he appears as a timid underfoot in the wild and woolly west, suddenly appointed marshal of the aptly-named frontier town of Big Bluff. His sole assignment being the capture of Buckskin Bill, marshal-hating renegade, the great mouthpiece naturally looks for a way out.

Learning that Buckskin Bill is a chivalrous gentleman, where ladies are concerned, the new Mar-favor of the "squeeze play." And Carole touches Nolan a few things too—but not about baseball. She's an expert in stealing hearts rather than bases.

The excellent performances of Nolan and Miss Landis are complemented by fine support from Sara Aldred, William Frawley, Robert Armstrong and Jane Darwell. Walter Morosco produced, and Ray McCarey directed from an original screen play by Harold Blumkin and Lee Luch.

For a double-header of thrills, comedy and romance, don't miss "It Happened In Flatbush."
