

Fay Wray Plays Title-Role In "Rosemary" Radio Drama

Cinema Queen Kept Breathless By Pace Of Plot; Program Scheduled To Be Heard Via WEAJ Thursday Night

There is one American girl who is having her dreams come true so fast that "Keeping Up With Rosemary" is keeping Fay Wray, cinema shrieker, who plays the role, breathless.

In the script of Thursday aired over WEAJ at 10:30 p. m. Rosemary realizes her ambition to drive a taxicab around Manhattan. Steve Grimshaw (played by Walter Coy of "Lady In The Dark" fame), as editor of the mythical magazine "News and Views," also has his chance to get some unusual pictures of Rosemary's adventures as a cab driver.

The typical American girl, fairy-godmothered by the mythical magazine, has as her first passenger a young couple on their way to the City Hall for the purpose of getting married, he then becomes tangled up in Brooklyn traffic with a commander of the U. S. Navy and last but not least a man with a little black bag and an order to rush to a hospital gets into her cab. What happens after that is sheer adventure on a who-dunnit scale.

But Rosemary comes out all right and over WEAJ on Saturday, July 11, at 8 p. m. when the program changes time, she gets together with when she attends a fashionable art gallery showing and rubs elbows with metropolis celebrities.

Henry Aldrich and his partner in trouble, Homer Brown, start forth into the world in search of a business career, but end up behind the ax handle during the broadcast of The Aldrich Family, starring Ezra Stone, over the WEAJ network at 8:30 p. m.

The two ambitious young men, concluding that they can't make that first million dollars by mowing the home lawn at 15 cents per hour, hear rumors of big money in the neighboring town, Abbott City. Falling for the impression that the grass is greener in an ax handle factory than in his own front yard, Henry turns over his local enterprises to Willie, at a loss; acquires a pair of overalls, and, with Homer, sets forth to Abbott City at 5 a. m. in quest of fortune, if not fame.

By the time the two boys have allowed their optimism to grow unchecked, their financial castles in the air would put a Rockefeller or a Morgan to shame.

Danny Seymour announces The Aldrich Family, and Jack Miller directs the orchestra for the Clifford Goldsmith comedy.

Following the July 2 broadcast, the Aldrich Family will take a five-week vacation, returning to the WEAJ net in the same Thursday night spot Aug. 13.

MERCER LISTS 552
CELINA, July 2.—There were 552 Mercer-co youths listed at the fifth registration for selective service, according to an announcement Wednesday by Gertrude McCain, clerk of the Mercer-co selective service board. Of this number, 287 were registered on Saturday and 315 on Tuesday.

BLACKOUT IS SUCCESS
CLEVELAND, July 2.—(AP)—Director William A. Stinchcomb of the Cuyahoga-co council for civilian defense termed "almost perfect" last night's blackout of a Greater Cleveland area with a population of nearly 900,000 persons.

WORKERS URGED TO OBSERVE FEW RULES ON JOBS

Four rules to guide the individual worker in connection with the mobilization of manpower were suggested Thursday by J. W. Saunders, manager of the Lima office of the United States Employment Service. The rules are:

One: If you are employed in war industry, stay on your job until the government advises you thru the United States Employment Service that you are needed more in another war job, or until the selective service board tells you your services are needed by the armed forces.

Two: If you are employed in a peacetime job, check with the United States Employment Service to learn where the present and future jobs are opening in war industries, and what kinds of workers are needed.

Three: Whether employed or not, explore the possibility of obtaining training for an essential war job, preferably in this community.

Four: If college or advanced high school student, stay in school and seek to prepare your self for technical work, either thru the regular courses or in short courses set up in the technical colleges and universities for war workers.

"A misplaced worker represents waste of time and energy," says Saunders. "If we match men and jobs properly the output of our production lines will be increased greatly. We know that if a man at a desk, behind a counter or on a farm can run a lathe or if he is a toolmaker or a die cutter, it is a waste of a needed skill. He belongs in a war production plant."

"We must have no waste of manpower. A worker who moves from job to job represents waste—waste of his own time and waste of the time taken to break in a replacement. Workers should not migrate around the country looking for war work on the basis of incomplete information. They should check with the United States Employment Service."

The cause of an eerie light appearing nearly every night on a railway track near Wilmington, N. C., remains unexplained.
