Woman Hysterical As Son-in-Law Wins Divorce Suit OAKLAND, Calif. — (U.P.) — Astronomer Damon Beard sat impassively but his mother sat felling screaming to the floor as he was awarded a divorce in the climax to his "crusade against vice" suit. Beard's pretty 21-year-old wife, Virginia whom he accused of entertaining numerous men in her bedroom and bathroom and on pink blanket picnics, was not present when Superior Judge James C. Quinn announced his decision. She rushed in a moment later and assisted her mother.

Quinn awarded custody of their two children, which both Virginia and Damon had sought, to Damon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Beard. Attorneys indicated they did not intend to file appeals. Quinn ruled that either Damon or Virginia would be permitted to visit the children at any time. "If there is any embarrassment of any kind," Quinn said, "this court will resume custody of the children."

Beard, University of California instructor, accused his wife of being much too friendly with a number of men, chiefly sailors, soldiers, and marines. Virginia said she was just being patriotic.

PIGEONS REJECT ROOST NEW ORLEANS — (U.P.) — The city has demolished a housing project because nobody would live in it. It was a pigeon roost designed to lure pigeons from the caves of city hall to an adjoining park. But the pigeons — once ejected by Roman candles and another lime forcibly placed in the new roost — flew back to the favored eaves every time.
