Lyric theatre patrons will get samples of advantures from both sides of the world, with our own mative institution, the cowboy, getting the honors in the first, "Westward Ho," starring Bob Steele, Tom Tyler and Rufe Davis. From the other side of the globe comes the locale for the second, "Law of the Jungle," starring Arline Judge, John King and Mantan Moreland. Kay Kyser and his versatile band provide both the music and laughs of the Sigma's new film, "My Favorite Spy," commencing Saturday. Ellen Drew and Jane Wyman represent Hollywood's contribution, while Harry Babbitt, Hsh Kabibble, Sully Mason, Trudy Irwin and Dorothy Dunn are Kyser's bandsmen who give more than music. Co-featured is "Dr. Broadway." Showing for the last times Friday are "Castle in the Desert" and "Escape From Crime." Brian Donlevy, William Holden and Ellen Drew have the prominent roles of "The Remarkable An-'drew." now at the State theatre. Any statement that the pendu- German agents secretly engaged lum is swinging back from in stirring up the native tribes "swing" to "sweet" would be bound to result in an argument. A-modest statement of the changing situation might be made in these terms: Some people like to be absorbed by the distracting ; jangle of swing, but after a while they yearn for sweeter sounds. This explains in part the great and growing popularity of Russ

Morgan's "Music in the Morgan Manner" which will be heard on Monday at the Ohio theatre. He tries' to give to listeners and dancers alike an intimate style, a style that is apt to flow right into your lap if you're sitting down and massage your heels if you're dancing. The Morgan music shifts with novel arrangements of the instruments or by lilting switches in rhythm from sweet to hot. Tunes from Offenbach or the
