OPA Plugs Loophole in Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson, discovering that contractors supplying clothing to the armed forces had gone back to the "19th century" to figure maximum prices, today plugged a loophole in the price ceiling.

Women Recognized

Women by the contribution they make in this war, and by showing efficiency equal to men, can win permanent employment gains, Marjorie Loomis Marshall, Madison attorney, told the convention banquet at Heidelberg Hofbrau Saturday night.

Future Problems Seen

"Whether war employment results in permanent gains is not as important as the contribution of women to the war effort, but we can make an effort to see that the gains are lasting, and to minimize the problems after the war," Mrs. Loomis declared.
