Group Will Study Increased Production

WASHINGTON- (U.P.) -A six man steel mission will be sent to Great Britain soon to coordinate and speed production of this vital war material, the combined production and resources board announced Saturday night. The mission will study ways to increase steel production in both tegrating production, and British techniques which could be applied successfully to American mills. Officials said they hoped a British steel mission would come to the United States for a similar study after the American group countries, possible means of in-returns to this country. One phase of the proposed study will deal with bringing the steel production of the two countries into a better balance. Officials have been alarmed by the concentration on steel plates-needed for ships and tanks - in American mills because this may cause an "unbalance" and upset certain phases of the nation's war production effort. They pointed out that it was of little use to have steel plates, for instance, if there was not enough structural steel on which to hang them or rivets with which to fasten them, "The capacity of the United States and Great Britain to make weapons of war out of steel is now greater than their joint capacity to produce steel," a board state ment said. Members of the American mission include Charles R. Hook, Middletown, O., chairman; Paul F. Schucker, WPB, Washington; Lieut. Col. Paul P. Llewellyn, army, Washington; Capt. G. A. Duncan, navy; Walter S. Tower, New York City, and Earl C. Smith,
