

Invasion By Nazi Saboteurs Portrayed On Lyric Screen

"Ladies In Retirement" Offered As Other Half Of Well-Balanced Double Bill
*Starting Tuesday

The story of a group of Nazis who land on the coast of North America and wreak general havoc before they are caught and killed is told in the Tuesday Lyric film, "The Invaders," starring Laurence Olivier, Leslie Howard, Raymond Massey and Anton Walbrook. Altho the film parallels somewhat the recent Nazi saboteur landing, the film was made before the event and the cinema Nazis have better luck than the real Nazis had.

Co-featured is "Ladies in Retirement." Showing for the last time Monday are "On the Sunny Side" and "Cadets on Parade."

"Sergeant York," the Tennessee volunteer who became a one-man blitzkrieg before the meaning of the word was known, is the character about whom the film at the State revolves. Gary Cooper has the title role and receives assistance from a popular supporting cast that includes Walter Brennan and Joan Leslie. Also showing is "All American Co-Ed," starring Johnny Downs and Frances Langford.

No one ever sleeps a wink in the screen's hilarious picturization of the famous romantic triangle that, as a stage hit, rolled the customers in the aisles, the film, "Twin Beds." The leading roles are portrayed by George Brent and Jean Bennett, while the cast includes Mischka Auer, Una Merkel, Glenda Farrell, and Ernest Truex. Also showing is "I Live on Danger," starring Chester Morris and Jean Parker.

In the current Ohio film, "Yankee Doodle Dandy," James Cagney portrays America's famous song and dance man, George M. Cohan, in a film based on the life of the noted singer of patriotic songs. In the cast are Walter Huston, Joan Leslie, Jeanne Cagney, Eddie Foy, Irene Manning, George Tobias and Richard Whorf.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy vie with Dante, the magician, for weird honors in the current Quila film, "A-Haunting We Will Go." Sheila Ryan, John Shelton, Don Costello and Elisha Cook, Jr., appear in supporting roles. Gagster Milton Berle has the leading role of the co-featured, "Whispering Ghosts," with Brenda Joyce, John Curran, John Shelton and Willie Best.

Radio Theatre To Present "This Above All" At Opener

Tyrone Power And Barbara Stanwyck To Appear In Inaugural Offering Of Dramatic Show's Ninth Year

RADIO . . . . . MONDAY RADIO . . . . .
When the house lights are lowered and the curtain rises Monday for the 361st performance of the Radio Theatre, oldest full-hour and leading dramatic show on the air, Cecil B. DeMille will present Tyrone Power and Barbara Stanwyck in a special adaptation of "This Above All," a stirring love story with the present world struggle its background, as the inaugural offering of the ninth season. The program will be heard at 9:00 p. m. over WAIC.

"This Above All" is the love story of Olive Broggs (Tyrone Power) and Prudence Cathaway (Barbara Stanwyck), a British aristocrat. Olive has distinguished himself in the fighting at Dunkirk, but he is bitterly disillusioned about the war. He feels he is fighting merely to preserve the caste-burdened English social system, which he detests, and so plans to desert his regiment.

When Prue learns of Olive's intention, she tells him with eloquent simplicity what England means to her and to millions of others like her. She tells him he must think with his heart, as well as with his mind. "This above all," she tells him, "to thine own self be true, and Olive then feels his identity with the war.

Marion Anderson, one of the world's leading contraltos, will be the 17th member of the Telephone Hour's "Great Artist Series" when she is heard on that program next Monday evening, 9:00 to 9:30 p. m. over WPAE. For her first program Miss Anderson is including some spirituals which were the songs of her childhood.

Besides the spirituals, Miss Anderson's selections will be "Hallelujah" by Hummel and a well-known aria from Mussenet's opera, "Le Cid." The Telephone Orchestra under the direction of Donald Voorhees will open the program with Tchaikovsky's "Sleeping Beauty."
