Costly Musicals Due to Open Early in Year

By JACK GAVER
(United Press Brama Editor)
NEW YORK — The beginning of the new year, the half-way mark of the 1942-43 theatrical season, finds the same number of plays and musical comedies on Broadway as on this date a year ago, but it should be mentioned that six of the 31 attractions of a year ago closed on the night of Jan. 3. No such mass exodus appears in prospect at this time, and, although a couple of productions may fall by the wayside at the end of this week, there are others coming in quickly to keep the total

WAVES, Sailors Ship Together in 'Look Alive'

Navy Students Plan First Stage Show for Jan. 12, 13, 14

The WAVES and the bluelackets will ship together for the first time in a stage show when the Wisconsin Union theater committee presents "Look Alive" Jan. 12, 13 and 14 in the Wisconsin Union theater. The show is an original musical revue, written by the naval trainees.

Open sale for the navy show will start at the Wisconsin Union box office Tuesday. Proceeds will be donated by the Wisconsin Union to the welfare fund of the naval training schools.

Bill Purnell, known as the director of many Haresfoot shows, will stage the revue. Musical direction ss in charge of Richard Church, director of music at West high school. Madison musicians are offering their services to form a pit band for the show.

All the comedy skits in the show Chicago by virtue of its allare original work of the men and women in the naval schools here around entertainment qualities, the campus. These naval trainees range from Lou Saxon, well-known radio sing-er, and Edith Kingdon Gould. great granddaughter of Jay Gould, who sacrificed the leading role in the forthcoming movie, "Stage the forthcoming movie, "Stage Door Canteen," in order to join the WAVES, to Raymond Warren, Endeaver, Wis., who used to star in the plays of the 4-H clubs of Maz-quette county, and the bluejacket who sang the lead role of "Pinafore" for his high school in Grand Rapids last year. In spite of the fact that the naval personnel in the show has had very little time to rehearse because it may be free only when class and study periods are not interrupted, director Purnell thinks "Look Alive" will be one of the best shows he has ever directed. In order to have time enough to whip the production into top shape, the trainees have given up their free time on weekends to rehearse.
