Si Johnson, 3, Hurls Phillies to 13-3 Win

Theoretically this second war-time baseball season is a year of tremendous opportunity for freshmen, but today the veterans had turned their back to the hour-glass and held a monopoly of the major leagues' fanciest batting

There are 14 big league veterans past 30 batting ,300 or better according to the latest official hitting statistics. The group as a whole averages 33 years and has compiled the lusty collective average of .352.

Armstrong KO's Jessup in First Round

BOSTON — (LP) — Henry Armstrong, the little fighting machine from California, headed along the comeback trail today toward New York and another match with lightweight Champion Beau Jack after sending Tommy Jessup back to his church choir duties a sadder but much wiser fighter. It took Hurricane Hank Just one minute to knock out Jes-sup, Springfield's pride and joy, in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds Friday night.

Nearly 10,000 fans came to Boston Garden to cheer the touted Springfield singer who had kayoed 23 opponents in 28 professional bouts, but the Pacific Coast veteran of 150 ring battles never gave Jessup or his fans a chance.

Armstrong blew out of his corner at the opening gong and crowded Jessup along the ropes.

Aguar Agrant Agr to death to run your letter send in some more I'll run them all. That is why I write this column I want to get two views. I am against minors in taverns I don't care whether it is in a bowling alley or not. You spoke about one alderman there who had a bowling alley in his ward he voted against bowling alleys but after, he found out that the bowling alley in his ward did not want a license, he then voted for licensing alleys in other parts of the city. You asked if that made sense? Now your letter is right there it don't make sense. I think this one alderman made a mistake if he wanted to protect children in his section of the city then he should think the same of the whole city. You are also right on this which are licensed as taverns and which are licensed as restaurants. The law ain't clear on that at all. Now I grant you some rights in your letter as I think some of your arguments are sound there. Then why don't you give me a little credit for trying to prevent young girls of minor age from being in these places? May I take this opportunity to thank you for the article which appeared in your column asking

Boxing 'Booming' Throughout in U. S., UP Survey Reveals

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—With Madison Square Garden setting the Overseas Again pace, professional boxing is booming in many areas, a national United Press survey disclosed Fri-In most of the boom sectors, pugilistic prosperity would be even greater were it not for the draft-caused scarcity of talent, particularly in preliminary bouts. Three important exceptions were noted in this renaissance of the belt-and-block industry: Chicago, Plttsburgh and Wisconsin. There's no boom in those sections and Richmond, Va., reports the fadeout of professional clubs in that area.

Madison Square Garden, "show window" of the sport, staged 11 cards this year. Although only one involved heavyweights and there wasn't a title scrap in the bunch, they drew a total of $625,-772 and 180,544 cash customers, or an average of $56,888 and 16,-413 fans. This amazed even Mike Detroit, Londes Prosper However, three smaller clubs in the metropolitan area did not share in the Garden's harvest. They barely "held their own" due to difficulty in arranging attractive cards. Meanwhile Philadelphia reported an upswing in large and small clubs, with the big shows averaging an increase of 1,500 fans and the smaller ones

In Washington, D. C., beakbusting has become so popular that two clubs instead of one are now in operation. Similarly, New Orleans reported that after May 17, two clubs—in-stead of one—will be staging weekly shows.

The cauliflowers are thriving in Detroit, under Nick Londes' care, and pro boxing has returned to Oklahoma City after an absence of five years. Despite the doldrums at Pittsburgh, a mild boom is reported in central Hits—(N) Frey, Cincinnati, 22;

PROTECT YOUR PARTNER MANY A BID is perfectly sound at the time you make it, but with a tendency to mislead your partner later on in the auction. This is most emphatically true when your call has been based on terrific length in your suit, with hardly any high cards in your hand. In other words, your hand is okeh if played with your suit as trump, but hardly worth a sou marquee at any other declaration. In event that your partner should later make a penalty double of the opponents, you must protect him and the side by bidding your suit again, if you are convinced he is counting on you for help in the defense which you cannot deliver. $ 8 5 4 2 $ 9 8 6

It was no job at all for South to make this contract, as West could not deliver a solitary trick and East could score only his two trump tops and his spade A. South marked up a doubled game with great glee, and the East-West partnership almost broke right there, for East bawled out ing a free bid on his hand and West defended the soundness of his bid, since he had so many playing tricks. Any kibitzer would have been foolhardy to inject himself into that discussion and show them that they had both missed the main point. West's bid was all right when he made it, as his hand was good for at least seven tricks with diamonds as trumps. but of such a nature that it could not be indicated except by repeated bids. The big idea is that he should not have left in the double of 4-Hearts, but should have called 5-Diamonds over it. That would have been doubled and set one trick; worth 200 points to the opponents, but not some 540, as was the case with the doubled game. If North and South had reached

6-Hearts and East had doubled, West might have left that in, as East, with an opening bid, might have set it single-handed.
